Curassows, Guans and Chachalacas Cracid Specialist Group, 2000 Curassows Guans and Chachalacas Status Survey and Conservation Action Plan for Cracids 2000 200      Antelopes David P. Mallon, Steven Charles Kingswood, 2001 Antelope herds numbering in the tens of thousands formerly occurred across the steppes and semideserts of Eurasia and India but these have nearly all been reduced to fractions of their earlier size antelope populations are now fragmented across the region and during recent decades several species have disappeared altogether Threats include hunting loss of habitat population fragmentation inadequate protected area coverage poorly developed administrative structures under resourcing of conservation programmes and lack of enforcement of existing legislation Rising human population growth and economic development constantly increases pressure on land and natural resources There is a consequent need for integrated rural development and community based conservation projects which have the full participation of local people at the planning and execution stages This publication Part 4 of the Global Antelope Survey covers 37 countries in the region and actions to conserve antelope populations are listed in each country report      Canids Claudio Sillero-Zubiri, Michael Hoffmann, David Whyte Macdonald, 2004 The new Canid Action Plan synthesizes the current knowledge on the biology ecology and status of all wild canid species and outlines the conservation actions and projects needed to secure their long term survival Aiming at conservation biologists ecologists local conservation officials administrators educators and all others dealing with canids in their jobs the authors aspire to stimulate the conservation of all canids by highlighting problems debating priorities and suggesting action      Tropical Stream Ecology David Dudgeon, 2011-05-04 Tropical Stream Ecology describes the main features of tropical streams and their ecology It covers the major physico chemical features important processes such as primary production and organic matter transformation as well as the main groups of consumers invertebrates fishes and other vertebrates Information on concepts and paradigms developed in north temperate latitudes and how they do not match the reality of ecosystems further south is expertly addressed The pressing matter of conservation of tropical streams and their biodiversity is included in almost every chapter with a final chapter providing a synthesis on conservation issues For the first time Tropical Stream Ecology places an important emphasis on viewing research carried out in contributions from international literature First synthetic account of the ecology of all types of tropical streams Covers all of the major tropical regions Detailed consideration of possible fundamental differences between tropical and temperate stream ecosystems Threats faced by tropical stream ecosystems and possible conservation actions Descriptions and syntheses life histories and breeding patterns of major aquatic consumers fishes invertebrates      An IUCN situation analysis of terrestrial and freshwater fauna in West and Central Africa , 2015-06-01 This situation analysis was undertaken to inform responses to several resolutions made at the 5th World Conservation Congress in 2012 about the plight of large vertebrates in West and Central Africa It draws on a wide range of information to provide information on the status of these species important sites pressures legislation the effectiveness of protected areas and both community based incentives for conservation and institutional responses The overriding conclusion is of substantial wildlife declines and inadequate responses to either long standing pressures or rapidly escalating threats that have emerged in recent years

West African Chimpanzees Rebecca Kormos,2003 Wild chimpanzees are only found in tropical Africa where their populations have declined by more than 66% in the last 30 years This Action Plan focuses on one of the four chimpanzee subspecies the western chimpanzee which is one of the two subspecies most threatened with extinction This publication presents a plan for action that represents a consensus among all parties concerned with the conservation of chimpanzees

Sylvatrop,2002

Occasional Papers of the California Academy of Sciences ,2013

Cycads John Sydney Donaldson,2003 The IUCN SSC Cycad ACTION Plan brings together the best available information on this ancient and fascinating group of plants Cycads were a dominant part of the earth s flora during the age of the dinosaurs and many species were common even in more recent times However many of the 297 species and subspecies dealt with in the Cycad Action Plan have been badly affected by habitat destruction and plant collecting within the last century As a result more than half the known species are now classified as threatened and the cycads stand out as one of the most threatened groups of plants in this world The Action Plan provides an overview of all the cycads and the threats to their survival This is followed by separate assessments for the four broad regions where cycads now occur namely Africa and the Indian Ocean Islands Australia Asia and the New World Trade in cycads has had a substantial impact on wild cycad populations and there is a separate chapter on trade and the effectiveness of control measures such as CITES In addition with so many species facing extinction in the wild garden collections have become increasingly important and we have assessed the global status of cycad collections Finally the Cycad Action Plan presents a set of objectives and actions to reduce the threat to cycads in the wild and to provide ex situ conservation for those that almost certainly will become extinct in the wild Wherever possible we have tried to identify and build on innovative projects such as community based nurseries and to link cycad consideration with other global and local initiatives such as the conservation of biodiversity hotspots environment Biodiversity includes genetic variety species diversity and variability in communities ecosystems and landscapes Biodiversity sustains the environments in which we live and on which our lives and those of every other living creature on Earth depend Thanks to biodiversity we are able to obtain such necessary goods as food clothing medicine and fuel Equally important are the ecosystem services that biodiversity provides such as clean air and drinkable water Conservation scientists have identified a number of universal threats to biodiversity habitat loss and degradation invasive species pollution overpopulation overexploitation and consumption and global climate change This new book examines critical issues in this field from researchers around the globe     Witthayāsān Kasētsārt ,2008     Reptiles James B.
