Discontinuity In Greek Civilization:

Discontinuity in Greek Civilization Rhys Carpenter, 1966 Discontinuity in Greek Civilization Rhys Carpenter, 1968

Review of Carpenter: Discontinuity in Greek Civilization, 1966 Vincent Robin d'Arba Desborough, 1968 The Historical Evolution of World-Systems C. Chase-Dunn, E. Anderson, 2005-02-18 The rise and decline of great powers remains a fascinating topic of vigorous debate This book brings together leading scholars to explore the historical evolution of world systems through examining the ebb and flow of great powers over time with particular emphasis on early time periods The book advances understanding of the regularities in the dynamics of empire and the expansion of political social and economic interaction networks from the Bronze Age forward The authors analyze the expansion and contraction of cross cultural trade networks and systems of competing and allying political groupings In premodern times theses ranged from small local trading networks even the very small ones of hunting gathering peoples to the vast Mongol world system Within such systems there is usually one or a very few hegemonic powers How they achieve dominance and how transitions lead to systems change are important topics particularly at a time when the United States position is in flux The chapters in this book review several recent approaches and present a wealth of new findings The Recurring Dark Ages Sing C. Chew, 2006-12-19 In this modern era of global environmental crisis Sing Chew provides a convincing analysis of the recurring human and environmental crises identified as Dark Ages In this his second of a three volume series concerning world ecological degradation Chew reviews the past 5 000 year history of structural conditions and processes that define the relationship between nature and culture Chew s message about the coming Dark Ages as human communities continue to reorganize to meet the contingencies of ecological scarcity and climate changes is a must read for those concerned with human interactions and environmental changes including environmental anthropologists and historians world historians geographers archaeologists and environmental scientists How Worlds Collapse Miguel Centeno, Peter Callahan, Paul Larcey, Thayer Patterson, 2023-03-30 As our society confronts the impacts of globalization and global systemic risks such as financial contagion climate change and epidemics what can studies of the past tell us about our present and future How Worlds Collapse offers case studies of societies that either collapsed or overcame cataclysmic adversity The authors in this volume find commonalities between past civilizations and our current society tracing patterns strategies and early warning signs that can inform decision making today While today s world presents unique challenges many mechanisms dynamics and fundamental challenges to the foundations of civilization have been consistent throughout history highlighting essential lessons for the future Discontinuity in Greek civilization Camb., C.U.P., 1966 viii, 79 p Rhys Carpenter, Exopolitics Paris Arnopoulos, 1999 Arnopoulos explains the thoughts and practices of the ancient Greeks with regard to external affairs or exopolitics integrating political philosophy with modern international theory He examines the political ideas of Plato and Aristotle specifically and evaluates the ancient Greek policy ideals regarding constitutionalism statesmanship and foreign policy In many ways Arnopoulos would say this is a study not of what people do but rather how they justify their deeds He has been writing on the subject for about 30 years and this monograph is a consolidation of his thinking His current academic affiliation is not noted

Promise-Giving and Treaty Making Peter Karavites, Thomas E. Wren, 1992 This book challenges the current view of the Homeric epics according to which they reflect only the institutions and ideas of their own time telling us nothing about the Mycenaean Age preceding it Using a comparative analysis of evidence from the Near East and the Homeric corpus Peter Karavites comes to the bold conclusion that the epics actually contain much that harks back to the Mycenaean Age and that the two eras may not be completely discontinuous after all Most contemporary scholars maintain that the mighty Mycenaean period was almost completely separated from the Dark Ages and that virtually no evidence of the former remains with the exception of the archeological finds and the meager testimony of the Linear B tablets However the Near Eastern evidence about treaties and other forms of promising suggests that the Iliad and Odyssey may indeed provide historical pictures of the Mycenaean times featured in their narratives

Pederasty and Pedagogy in Archaic Greece William A. Percy, 1996 William Armstrong Percy III maintains that Cretan sages established a system under which a young warrior in his early twenties took a teenager of his own aristocratic background as a beloved until the age of thirty when service to the state required the older partner to marry The practice spread with significant variants to other Greek speaking areas In some places it emphasized development of the athletic warrior individual while in others both intellectual and civic achievement were its goals

Structure, Culture, and History Sing C. Chew, J David Knottnerus, 2002-10-16 Offers the newest research developments and theory in the re emerging field of structural analysis The first section provides an overview and appraisal of the history and future of structural analysis Subsequent sections focus on culture historical processes and macro micro level interactions The book s synthetic essays take a variety of forms dealing with structural levels of analysis agency and structure multidimensional views of social structure and theory integration

From Feathers to Iron John Clarke, 1987 Nonfiction FROM FEATHERS TO IRON a series of lectures by John Clarke has virtually no precedent in the literature of poetic interpretation It is at once a profound revelation of the physics of poetic intelligence and a brilliantly conceived declaration of the implicate order of the universe How rarely I come upon a truly useful book Clarke has packed it all in here and wherever you open the pages jewels pearls crowns tumble out I see illustrations to the Arabian Nights I have already picked up and walked off with treasures James Hillman Defensible Sites in Crete, C. 1200-800 B.C. Krzysztof Nowicki, 2000 Shortly before 1200 B C the Aegean and soon afterwards much of the East Mediterranean was shaken by disturbances and destructions which considerably changed the settlement patterns as well as the political and social structures of those lands This led to the decline of the Mycenaean world which eventually caused the so called Dark Age in Greece Crete being an island located on the cross roads between the Greek Mainland Sicily and South Italy and the Levant may have been particularly affected by the problems referred to in ancient written sources under the name of the Sea Peoples The Dark Age in Crete is potentially better represented than in other areas of the Aegean and explorations in the mountainous hinterland of the island have shown site numbers and a density of habitation only vaguely suggested by the excavated samples of sites This book is based on fifteen years of field research presenting about 120 defensible sites with comprehensive descriptions sketches plans and illustrations of surface pottery Archaeological evidence in a large part hitherto unpublished is analysed in detail to reconstruct changes in settlement patterns alongside the political social ethnic and economic aspects of the Dark Age society in Crete The problem of the function of defensible and fortified sites during the Dark Age is examined against a more general background of similar sites on the island from the Neolithic through the Bronze Age The phenomenon of defensible settlements founded c 1200 B C is discussed here in a wider Mediterranean context with reference to other Aegean islands Cyprus and the Levant One chapter presents the historical written sources from the Near East and Egypt which contain references to events that might have caused the dramatic changes suggested in archaeological evidence towards the end of the Bronze Age
