The Information Needs of Communities Steven Waldman,2011 In 2009 a bipartisan Knight Commission found that while the broadband age is enabling an information and communications renaissance local communities in particular are being unevenly served with critical information about local issues Soon after the Knight Commission delivered its findings The Federal Communications Commission FCC initiated a working group to identify crosscurrents and trends and make recommendations on how the information needs of communities can be met in a broadband world Steven Waldman and the FCC Working Group on the Information Needs of Communities produced this report addressing the rapidly changing media landscape in a broadband age The Information Needs of Communities looks not only at the changing face of media but also at the relevant policy and regulatory situations including the track record of the FCC Finally the report offers policy suggestions to help create the best media system ever seen Publish! ,2001 The New York Times Index ,2008 A New Cultural Economy Gerfried Stocker,Christine Schöpf,2008 The age of copyright and intellectual property has reached its expiration date a development that already manifested itself in the technical fundamentals of the Internet has reared its head in the actual practices of a young generation of users and is bringing forth a new economy of sharing that clever business people are now taking to the next conceptual level a new cultural economy With this provocative formulation Ars Electronica 2008 is placing one of the core issues of modern knowledge based society at the focal point of this year s festival program Artists theorists and experienced network nomads elaborate on these phenomena that now characterize our culture of everyday life from angst inducing scenarios of the annulment of intellectual property rights all the way to kicking back and going with the global information flow So then what status can intellectual property still have in an open knowledge based society And who s responsible for protecting intellectual property and establishing practicable rules
