Discours De La Methode:

Discours de la méthode René Descartes, 1861 Discours de la méthode Descartes, René, 2017-02-03 Le Discours de la méthode sous titre Pour bien conduire sa raison et chercher la vérité dans les sciences est un texte philosophique publié anonymement par René Descartes le 8 juin 1637 Dans les premières éditions ce discours servait d'introduction à trois traités scientifiques mettant en application cette méthode La Dioptrique Les Météores et La Géométrie Pour Descartes il s'agit d'en dire assez pour faire juger que les nouvelles opinions qui se verraient dans la Dioptrique et dans les Météores n'étaient point contraires à la religion Toutefois sa clarté est devenue telle qu'il est désormais souvent publié seul comme un essai indépendant Ce discours marque une rupture avec la tradition scolastique jugée trop spéculative par Descartes sixième partie et se présente plutôt comme un plaidoyer en faveur du progrès des techniques et pour une nouvelle fondation des sciences sur des bases plus solides Il fut rédigé directement en français langue vulgaire Descartes voulant par là s'opposer à la tradition scolastique qui avait pour habitude d'écrire en latin et s'adresser à un public plus large que les savants et les théologiens Il souhaitait être compris des femmes et des enfants² Dans ce discours Descartes expose son parcours intellectuel de façon rétrospective depuis son regard critique porté sur les enseignements qu'il avait reçus l'école jusqu'à la fondation d'une philosophie nouvelle quelques années plus tard Il y propose aussi une méthode composée de quatre règles pour éviter l'erreur et y développe une philosophie du doute visant à reconstruire le savoir sur des fondements certains en s'inspirant de la certitude exemplaire des mathématiques la célèbre phrase je pense donc je suis cogito ergo sum qui permet à Descartes de sortir du doute lui servira de titre de premier principe Par ailleurs il y résume ses méditations sur l'âme et sur Dieu dont il donne une version beaucoup plus tendue que dans les Méditations métaphysiques quatre ans plus tard Le Discours de la méthode est aussi l'occasion pour Descartes de présenter une morale provisoire tenant en quelques maximes de conduite rendues nécessaires par la méthode elle-même³ et de développer des considérations sur les animaux théorie des animaux machines et sur le rôle du cœur dans la circulation du sang Enfin le traité présente des déclarations sur le rapport de l'homme à la nature représentatives de la modernité puisque Descartes y dit que les hommes doivent se rendre comme maîtres et possesseurs de la nature par le progrès des techniques au premier plan desquelles il recommande d'améliorer la médecine Discours de la Méthode R. Discourse on the Method of Rightly Conducting One's Reason and of Seeking Truth in the Sciences French Discours de la Méthode Pour bien conduire sa raison et chercher la vérité dans les sciences is a philosophical and autobiographical treatise published by René Descartes in 1637. It is best known as the source of the famous quotation Je pense donc je suis English I think therefore I am or I am thinking therefore I exist which occurs in Part IV of the work. The similar Latin statement Cogito ergo sum is found in Meditations on First Philosophy 1641 and Principles of Philosophy 1644. Discourse on the Method is one of the most influential works in the history of modern philosophy and important to the development of natural sciences. In this work, Descartes tackles the problem of skepticism which had previously been studied by Sextus Empiricus, Al-Ghazali, and Michel de Montaigne. Descartes modified it to account for a truth he found to be incontrovertible. Descartes started his line of reasoning by doubting everything so as to assess the world from a fresh perspective, clear of any preconceived notions. The book was originally published in Leiden in the Netherlands. Later, it was translated into Latin and published in 1656 in Amsterdam. The book was intended as an introduction to three works: Dioptrique, Mécaniques, and Géométrie. La Géométrie contains Descartes's initial concepts that later developed into the Cartesian coordinate system. The text was written and published in French rather than the language in which philosophical and scientific texts were most frequently written and published at the time, namely Latin. Most of Descartes' other works were written in Latin. Together with Meditations on First Philosophy, Principles of Philosophy, and Rules for the Direction of the Mind, it forms the base of the epistemology known as Cartesianism. The long chains of simple and easy reasonings by means of which geometers are accustomed to reach the conclusions of their most difficult demonstrations had led me to imagine that all things the knowledge of which is competent to man are mutually connected in the same way and that there is nothing so far removed from us as to be beyond our reach or so hidden that we cannot discover it, provided only we abstain from accepting the false for the true and always preserve in our thoughts the order necessary for the deduction of one truth from another.

Rene Descartes Discourse on the Method of Rightly Conducting the Reason and Seeking Truth in the Sciences by René Descartes The Discourse on the Method French Discours de la méthode is a philosophical and autobiographical treatise published by René Descartes in 1637. Its full name is Discourse on the Method of Rightly Conducting One's Reason and of Seeking Truth in the Sciences. French title: Discours de la méthode pour bien conduire sa raison et chercher la vérité dans les sciences. The Discourse on The Method is best known as the source of the famous quotation Je pense donc je suis (I think therefore I am) which occurs in Part IV of the work. Good sense is of all things among men the most equally distributed for every one thinks himself so abundantly provided with it that those even who are the most difficult to satisfy in everything else do not usually desire a larger measure of this quality than they already possess. And in this it is not likely that all are mistaken: the conviction is rather to be held as testifying that the power of judging aright and of distinguishing truth from error which is properly what is called good sense or reason is by nature equal in all men and that the diversity of our opinions consequently does not arise from some being endowed with a larger share of reason than others but solely from this that we conduct our thoughts along different ways and do not fix our attention on the same objects. For to be possessed of a vigorous mind is not enough: the prime requisite is rightly to apply it. The greatest minds as they are capable of the highest excellences are open likewise to the greatest aberrations and those who travel very slowly may yet make far greater progress provided they keep always to the straight road than those who while they run forsake it.
