

Example: Crisis Bargaining

- Rich, very rich, literature, lots of it formal, so where do we start?
  - Two general strands:
    - Signaling (Schelling, Jervis, Fearon, Morrow, Banks)
    - Bargaining (Schelling, Fearon, Powell)
  - General underlying ideas very similar, especially about private information
    - Goal is to establish credible commitments
    - Problem is asymmetric information
    - Solution is costly signaling:
      - Tying hands, sinking costs (signaling)
      - Risk-return trade-off (bargaining)
  - BUT: seem to be talking past each other!

Intriligator, Urs Luterbacher, 2012-12-06 Cooperative Models in International Relations Michael D Intriligator and Urs Luterbacher Cooperation problems in international relations research have been associated with a variety of approaches Game theoretical and rational choice perspectives have been used extensively to analyze international conflict at a bilateral two actor level Problems of deterrence and conflict escalation and deterrence maintaining and conflict dilemma solving strategies have been studied with a variety of game theoretical constructs These range from two by two games in normal form Axelrod 1984 to sequential games It is obvious that the analysis of conflict solving strategies and metastrategies deals implicitly and some times explicitly with cooperation The emphasis on cooperation promoting strategies plays therefore an important role within rational choice analysis of two actor problems However problems of international cooperation have also been traditionally associated with literary and qualitative approaches This is especially true for studies carried out at a multilateral or systemic level of analysis The association between cooperation problems at the international level and the study of international organizations influenced by the international legal tradition have certainly contributed to this state of affairs The concept of international regime of cooperation Krasner 1983 which derives itself from legal studies has been developed entirely within the context of this literary 1 2 COOPERATIVE MODELS IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS RESEARCH conception However as such studies evolved various authors tended to use more formal constructs to justify their conclusions and to refine their analyses

Arms Race Theory Craig Etcheson, 1989-07-12 For most of the twentieth century social scientists have attempted to understand the causes of military competition From this struggle has evolved the Richardson Tradition of Arms Race Analysis a distinct body of scientific literature that uses a variety of mathematical techniques and theoretical ideas to solve the puzzle of what drives military interaction among nations Etcheson explores this intellectual journey and projects the paths along which the Richardson Tradition must go if it is to obtain its objective understanding and control of potentially unnecessary organized social violence Arms Race Theory examines thoroughly the literature of the Richardson Tradition from the writings of Lewis Fry Richardson through the most recent attempts of his students to resolve the fundamental questions about interaction in arms races Etcheson documents the application of the procedures of positive physical science to social problems and identifies the reasons why Richardson and his students have been frustrated in their efforts According to the author students of the Richardson Tradition adhere to an atomistic and reductionist perspective that denies the relevance of human values and intentions He focuses on the idea of strategy as a gateway to an understanding of the social causes of arms accumulation Etcheson prepares the way for a new phase in the Richardson Tradition by identifying new theoretical foci and methodological techniques His analysis coupled with the most comprehensive bibliography of the literature of the Richardson Tradition currently available is a significant contribution to the growing body of scholarship in peace research and international relations theory
