Critical History Of British Cinema:

A Critical History of the British Cinema Roy Armes, 1978 This comprehensive survey probes the strengths and shortcomings of a national output conditioned by a love hate relationship with Hollywood British Cinema Amy Sargeant, 2019-07-25 Although new writing and research on British cinema has burgeoned over the last fifteen years there has been a continued lack of single authored books providing a coherent overview to this fascinating and elusive national cinema Amy Sargeant's personal and entertaining history of British cinema aims to fill this gap With its insightful decade by decade analysis British Cinema is brought alive for a new generation of British cinema students and the general reader alike Sargeant challenges Rachel Low's premise that few of the films made in England during the twenties were any good by covering subjects as diverse as the art of intertiting the narrative complexities of Shooting Stars and Brunel's burlesques Sargeant goes on to examine among other things the differing acting styles of Dietrich and Donat in the seminal Knight Without Armour to early promotional campaigns in the 1930s whereas subjects ranging from product endorsement by stars to the character of the suburban wife are covered in the 1940s The 1950s includes topics such as the effect of post war government intervention to Free Cinema and Lindsay Anderson's infuriating lapses of rigour together with a much needed overview of Michael Balcon's contribution to British cinema For Sargeant the 1960s provides an overview of the tentative relationship between film and advertising and the rise of young Turks such as Tony Richardson Ken Loach Donald Cammell and Nicolas Roeg

Re-Viewing British Cinema, 1900-1992 Wheeler W. Dixon, 1994-07-01 Re-Viewing British Cinema 1900-1992 is a collection of essays on British cinema history and practice It offers both the casual reader and the film scholar a different view of British filmmaking during the past century Arranged in chronological order the book explores those areas of British cinema that have not been fully examined in other works and also offers fresh interpretations of a number of classic films From the work of Frederic Villiers the pioneering British newsreel cameraman who at the turn of the century brought home images of battlefield carnage to essays on the British B film and the long forgotten Independent Frame method of film production to new readings of classics such as The Red Shoes Passport to Pimlico and Peeping Tom the authors offer a look behind the scenes of the British film industry and engage the reader in some of the most compelling interpretational and historical issues of recent film history and critical theory In addition the volume contains a number of interviews with such key directors as Stephen Frears Terence Davies Wendy Toye and Lindsay Anderson and also pays particular attention to the work of early twentieth century British feminist filmmakers whose films have often been ignored by conventional film theory and history It also offers new material on the British film noir the English horror film and the pioneering gay director Brian Desmond Hurst Taken as a whole this book presents an entirely new series of viewpoints on British film practice theory and reception and affords a fresh and vibrant view of the British film medium A Critical History of the British Cinema, 1978

The Routledge Companion to British Cinema History I.Q. Hunter, Laraine Porter, Justin Smith, 2017-01-12 This book

offers a comprehensive and revisionist overview of British cinema as on the one hand a commercial entertainment industry and on the other a series of institutions centred on economics funding and relations to government

A Critical History of Health Films in Central and Eastern Europe and Beyond Victoria Schmidt, Karl Kaser, 2023-12-21 The burgeoning scholarship on Western health films stands in stark contrast to the vacuum in the historical conceptualization of Eastern European films This book develops a nonlinear historical model that revises their unique role in the inception of national cinematography and establishing supranational health security Readers witness the revelation of an unknown history concerning how the health films produced in Eastern European countries not only adopted Western patterns of propaganda but actively participated in its formation especially with regard to those considered others Women and the populations of the periphery The authors elaborate on the long echo of the discursive practices introduced by health films within public health propaganda as well as the attempts to negate and deconstruct such practices by rebellious filmmakers A wide range of methods including the analysis of the sociological biographies of filmmakers the historical reconstruction of public campaigns against diseases and an investigation into the production of health films contextualizes these films along a multifaceted continuum stretching between the adaptation of global patterns and the cultivation of national authenticities The book is aimed at those who study the history of film the history of public health Central and Eastern European countries and global history The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution CC BY 4.0 International license

A Critical History of History in Moving Pictures John N. Dunbar Ph.D., 2014-03-17 In the first book of its kind in the English language historian Dr John Dunbar provides an overview of attempts throughout film history to put historical topics on screen in the United States and Great Britain The earliest attempts were biographic films about famous people and some great epic films such as Gone With the Wind that were not claimed to be accurate histories of a period World War Two paved the way for post war developments through the evolution of the documentary film that were often accurate portrayals of events in the war After WW 2 a number of social political technical and economic developments opened the way for the making of historically accurate films The dissolution of the Studio System in Hollywood the disappearance of film censor boards the arrival of television and later the internet the appearance of greater market segments than those traditionally served by motion picture all opened up market opportunities for films of greater historical accuracy than had traditionally been available The emergence of film makers and production companies dedicated to the accurate telling of history now engages the resources of professional historians in the making of films of unequalled accuracy As items in the modern world of media literacy and political discourse these films play an important role in the sustenance of the open society in which the ideals of the European Enlightenment can be continually realized

Nonfiction Film Richard Barsam, 1992-11-22 Richard Barsam has given us as comprehensive a study of the origins and development of the nonfiction mode in motion pictures as we are ever likely to have in one volume He draws on all the major written sources and many which are little known and he shares with us many eloquent descriptions of the films themselves giving us a valuable textbook

Richard Dyer MacCann superb work Historical Journal of Film Radio and Television

British Cinema in the 1950's Ian MacKillop, Neil Sinyard, 2003-06-28 This book offers a startling re evaluation of what has until now been seen as the most critically lackluster period of the British cinema Twenty writers contribute essays that rediscover and reassess the productions of the Festival of Britain decade during which the vitality of wartime film making flowed into new forms Topics covered include genres such as the B film the war film the woman s picture the theatrical adaptation and comedy also social issues such as censorship and the screen representation of childhood

British Film Directors Robert Shail, 2007 This concise authoritative volume analyses critically the work of 100 British directors from the innovators of the silent period to contemporary auteurs

British Cinema and Society, 1930-1970 Jeffrey Richards, Anthony Aldgate, 1983 Arguing that feature films represent an important and largely untapped source of evidence for understanding the history of the present century the authors of this book examine ten key British films from the period 1930 to 1970 in an effort to discover how they illuminate the interests attitudes and preoccupations of the age The ten films selected are Sanders of the River 1935 South Riding 1938 A Canterbury Tale 1944 The Life and Death of Colonel Blimp 1943 Fame is the Spur 1947 The Guinea Pig 1948 I'm All Right Jack 1959 Saturday Night and Sunday Morning 1960 and If 1969 which reflect the introduction of sound films in Britain to the time when the British film industry virtually collapsed
