Senie, 2018-06-11 While many museums have ignored public art as a distinct arena of art production and display others have either grudgingly or enthusiastically embraced it Some institutions have partnered with public art agencies to expand the scope of special exhibitions other museums have attempted to establish in house public art programs This is the first book to contextualize the collaborations between museums and public art through a range of essays marked by their coherence of topical focus written by leading and emerging scholars and artists Organized into three sections it represents a major contribution to the field of art history in general and to those of public art and museum studies in particular It includes essays by art historians critics curators arts administrators and artists all of whom help to finally codify the largely unwritten history of how museums and public art have and continue to intersect Key questions are both addressed and offered as topics for further discussion Who originates such public art initiatives funds them and most importantly establishes the philosophy behind them Is the efficacy of these initiatives evaluated in the same way as other museum exhibitions and programs Can public art ever be a permanent feature in any museum And finally are the museum and public art ultimately at odds or able to mutually benefit one another

Presidential Temples Benjamin Hufbauer, 2005 This book explores the visual and material cultures of presidential commemoration memorials and monuments libraries and archives and the problematic ways in which presidents themselves

have largely taken over their own commemoration The author sees these various commemorative sites as playing a key role in the construction of our collective political and cultural self images and as another sign of our preoccupation with celebrity culture Ultimately he contends these presidential temples reflect not only our civil religion but also the extraordinary expansion of executive authority and presidential self commemoration since FDR Public Art in the Bronx Sally Webster, Susan Hoeltzel, 1993 Contemporary Public Sculpture Harriet Senie, 1992 In the twentieth century public sculpture has changed almost beyond recognition Works inspired by classical and Renaissance traditions imposing equestrian monuments and triumphal arches have been replaced by works such as Claes Oldenburg's Clothespin and Christo's Running Fence This break from tradition has led to radically different approaches to public sculpture but not without bitter controversy within both the art community and the general public Contemporary Public Sculpture offers the first comprehensive look at this highly diverse and often controversial branch of modern art Beginning with the revival of public sculpture in the 1960s with the work of Picasso Calder Moore Nevelson and others Senie traces the developments that defined a new civic art one which substituted the artist's fame for public content and sparked debates about cost the role of government and the place of public art in a democratic society She shows how the growing irrelevance of traditional memorials resulted in a new approach to the genre defined by Maya Lin's Vietnam Veterans Memorial which set out to heal a nation rather than glorify a military event by honoring victims rather than heroes and how dissatisfaction with modern glass box architecture and its surrounding barren urban spaces led architectural firms like Skidmore Owings and she explores works by George Sugarman and Scott Burton that combine sculpture and furniture changing the very idea of public art by creating a stage for public life Finally she examines the controversies that arise when citizens including the press and politicians confront publicly funded work such as Joel Shapiro's Headless Gumby or Serra's Tilted Arc that defies their sense of what public sculpture should be Illustrated with over one hundred halftones this overview of contemporary public sculpture provides a clear understanding of why it is there why it looks the way it does and what is really at stake in the continuing public art controversy The Public's Art Jennifer Geigel Mikulay, 2007 Art Inquiry, 2006 Biennial Exhibition of Public Art Neuberger Museum of Art, 1999 Neuberger Museum of Art 1999 Biennial Exhibition of Public Art Neuberger Museum of Art, 1999 Temporary Monuments Rebecca Zorach, 2024-03-07 There is no question that art has played a key role in constructing the public understanding of America Probing the intersection of art nature race and place Temporary Monuments examines how art and artists have responded to this legacy by imagining new ways of constructing notions of land culture and public space Zorach demonstrates how art historical tropes play out through and against the construction of race in a series of real and conceptual spaces that are key to how we imagine this country Ranging from the museum the wild and the monument to the garden the home and the border Temporary Monuments incorporates memoir historical narrative literary analysis and close looking at objects that date from significant moments in

Shadowed Ground Kenneth E. Foote,1997 From the battlefield at Gettysburg to the Oklahoma City block where the Alfred P Murrah Federal Building once stood sites of violence and tragedy have left indelible marks on the American landscape Some have become places of pilgrimage where visitors mourn losses learn lessons from the tragedy and experience renewal Others became empty places where nothing remains to commemorate or even to mark the occurrence In this pioneering book Kenneth E Foote explores how and why Americans have memorialized or not the sites of tragic and violent events Drawing on years of travel and reflection he traces the history of sites spanning three centuries and every region of the United States Foote deduces that Americans usually react to the scenes of tragedy in one of four ways Many places undergo public sanctification such as Memphis Lorraine Motel where Martin Luther King Jr was assassinated Some are simply designated with a marker while others are rectified and returned to normal use Those that produce shame and revulsion are often obliterated and left empty These differing reactions to sites of violence offer an important new perspective to the debate over violence in American society
