

7 STEP MORAL REASONING MODEL

THE STEPS OR ELEMENTS OF A MODEL FOR MAKING MORAL DECISIONS

GATHER THE FACTS

Some moral dilemmas can be resolved just by clarifying the facts of the case in question. But in more complex cases, gathering the facts is the indispensable first step prior to any ethical analysis and reflection on the case. In examining a case, we want to know the available facts at hand, as well as any facts presently not known but that need to be determined.

DETERMINE THE ETHICAL ISSUES

The moral issues should be correctly stated in terms of competing interests. It is these conflicting interests that practically make for a moral dilemma. The issues must be presented in a P.V.s. Q format in order to reflect the interests that are colliding in a specific moral dilemma.

IDENTIFY THE PRINCIPLES THAT HAVE A BEARING ON THE CASE

In any moral dilemma, there are sure moral values or principles that are vital to the rival positions being taken. It is very significant to recognize these principles, and in some cases, to decide whether some principles are to be weighted more heavily than others.

LIST THE ALTERNATIVES

This step involves coming up with various alternative courses of action as part of the creative thinking included in resolving a moral dilemma. "Though there will be some alternatives which you will rule out without much thought, in general, the more alternatives that are listed, the better the chance that your list will include some high quality ones."

COMPARE THE ALTERNATIVES WITH THE PRINCIPLES

This step involves eliminating alternatives according to the moral principles that have a bearing on the case. In many cases, the case will be resolved at this point, since the principles will remove all alternatives except one. The purpose of this comparison is to determine whether there is a clear decision that can be made without further deliberation. If a clear decision is not forthcoming, then the next step in the model should be considered. Some of the alternatives, at the least, may be rejected by this step of comparison.

WEIGH THE CONSEQUENCES

If the principles do not produce a clear decision, "then a consideration of the consequences of the remaining available alternatives is in order. Both positive and negative consequences are to be considered. They should be informally weighted, since some positive consequences are more beneficial than others and some negative consequences are more detrimental than others."

MAKE A DECISION

Since deliberation ought not to go on forever, a decision must be made at some point. It must be realized that one common element to moral dilemmas is that there are no easy and painless solutions to them. Normally, the decision that is made is one that possesses the least number of problems or negative consequences, not one that is devoid of them.
