

MODERN ART : CRITIQUE

Art movements reflect the times in which they were created, showing us how artists responded to the world around them. There are three types of art, Impressionist, Dadaist, and Surrealist movements, and I'm going to be breaking down what makes each piece special and how it connects to its time.

Henri Toulouse-Lautrec's At the Moulin Rouge captures the lively nightlife of Paris at the famous Moulin Rouge cabaret. Lautrec was known for his vibrant and edgy view of Parisian society. Born into an aristocratic family and with physical issues, his art reflects his unique view of the world. In this painting, the bright colors and lively scene show the energy and chaos of late 19th-century Paris. Famous figures like the dancer La Goulue are featured, showing how the era was fascinated with celebrity culture. The painting draws viewers into the bustling world of Parisian nightlife, giving a sense of excitement and intimacy.

Claude Monet's Woman with a Parasol is a great example of Impressionism's focus on capturing light and nature. Monet was a leader in this movement and often painted outdoors to capture the moment's light. This painting shows Monet's wife and son on a breezy summer day. The soft brushstrokes and light colors highlight the gentle, fleeting quality of the scene. Monet's approach is all about the immediate experience rather than detailed representation. The painting feels calm and celebrates the simple joys of being outdoors.

Pierre-Auguste Renoir's Luncheon of the Boating Party shows a group of friends having a relaxing afternoon on the Seine River. Renoir's paintings often focus on social scenes and personal moments. This work reflects the growing trend of middle-class leisure activities in the late 19th century. The vibrant colors and dynamic composition emphasize the fun of socializing and enjoying a sunny day. The painting's warm tones and lively feel create a sense of closeness and happiness, inviting viewers to enjoy the moment with the people in the painting.

Marcel Duchamp's Fountain is a revolutionary piece that challenges what we think of as art. Duchamp, a major figure in the Dada movement, this work questions the definition of art itself, suggesting that the artist's intention is what makes something art. Created in the wake of World War I, Fountain reflects the Dadaists' desire to break away from traditional artistic norms and provoke thought about creativity and value. The piece makes viewers reconsider their ideas about art and its boundaries.

Tristan Tzara's The Gas Heart is a play that embodies the Dada movement's love for randomness and absurdity. Tzara's play features strange language and a fragmented structure, showing the Dadaists' rejection of traditional storytelling. The disjointed dialogue and surreal elements highlight the chaos and irrationality of modern life. This

Criticizing Art Terry Barrett, 1994 Criticizing Art Understanding the Contemporary helps students of art and art history better understand and appreciate contemporary art by studying the principles of art criticism and applying them to contemporary forms of American art This book provides a framework for critically considering contemporary art through describing interpreting evaluating and theorizing The diverse perspectives of contemporary critics such as Douglas Crimp Arthur Danto Elizabeth Heartney Donald Kuspit Lucy Lippard Peter Plagens and Arlene Raven on the work of Leon Golub Jenny Holzer Frida Kahlo Elizabeth Murray Martin Puryear William Wegman and many other artists help readers develop their own critical positions Chapter 5 Theory and Art Criticism offers clear definitions of modernism post modernism feminism and multiculturalism enabling readers to understand the critical milieu in which twentieth century critics have been operating An entire chapter Chapter 6 devoted to writing and talking about contemporary art leads readers through the process of preparing thoughtful well constructed critical analyses Two student papers provide useful examples of the principles discussed throughout the text Guidelines for constructive group criticism are also included BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Modern Art And Modernism Francis Frascina, 2018-05-04 Modern Art and Modernism offers firsthand material for the study of issues central to the development of modern art its theory and criticism The history of modern art is not simply a history of works of art it is also a history of ideas interpretations The works of critics and theorists have not merely been influential in deciding how modern art is to be seen and understood they have also influenced the course it has taken The nature of modern art cannot be understood without some analysis of the concept of Modernism itself Modern Art and Modernism presents a selection of texts by the major contributors to debate on this subject from Baudelaire and Zola in the nineteenth century to Greenberg and T J Clark in our own times It offers a balanced section of essays by contributors to the mainstream of Modernist criticism representative examples of writing on the themes of abstraction and expression in modern art and a number of important contributions to the discussion of aesthetics and the social role of the artist Several of these are made available in English translation for the first time and others are brought together from a wide range of periodicals and specialized collections This book will provide an invaluable resource for teachers and students of modern art art history and aesthetics as well as for general readers interested in the place of modern art in culture and history Modern Art Pam Meecham, Julie Sheldon, 2000 This textbook provides a comprehensive guide to modern and post modern art The authors bring together history theory and the art works themselves to help students understand how and why art has developed during the 20th century Modern Arts Criticism , 1991 A biographical and critical guide to painters sculptors photographers and architects from the beginning of the modern era to the present Boundaries of Modern Art Richard Pooler, 2013-02-04 Conceptual art in the Western world is in crisis That is the view of many people who are disillusioned with what they regard as its attention seeking antics where artists themselves have proudly proclaimed the death of art Why has art been on this road to destruction and how did it get there How does one make sense of the bewildering complexity of Conceptual art and how does one extract meaning from its diverse and sometimes bizarre manifestations This predicament needs explanation and an exploration of the theoretical underpinnings of modern and contemporary art and a means to evaluate it This book starts with a summarised overview of the major art movements since the beginning of the twentieth century a tracing of the extraordinary journey that art has followed in modern times The next part considers contemporary art movements to explore whether they have value and how that value can be determined Are the activities that take place in the name of art actually art Or as some would have it is it a gigantic sham manipulated by clowns to make a trap for fools To some it is an outrage that modern and contemporary artists can splash paint around quickly and freely with a modicum of skill or assemble a range of found objects and regard themselves as gifted and creative artists Others see this as a new forward rolling wave with art at last released from the suffocation and restrictions of the past The rules have been cast aside There are fresh ways of exploring and seeing the world and expressing it freely The world is constantly changing and art must change with it Modern art has followed a long journey Traditions have been largely cast aside and replaced with an unceasing search for the new Our apparent progress is now being questioned Where do we go from here Are we on the right road The second half of this book discusses how we can make sense of contemporary art and assign value to an artwork Traditional painting and sculpture have physical limits Conceptual art does not This is a new freedom but is it freedom for art or freedom from art

Beyond Critique Pamela Fraser, Roger Rothman, 2017-04-06 Critique has long been a central concept within art practice and theory Since the emergence of Conceptual Art artists have been expected by critics curators and art school faculty to focus their work on exposing and debunking ideologies of power and domination Recently however the effectiveness of cultural critique has come into question The appearance of concepts such as the speculative the reparative and the constructive suggests an emerging postcritical paradigm Beyond Critique takes stock of the current discourse around this issue With some calling for a renewed criticality and others rejecting the model entirely the book's contributors explore a variety of new and recently reclaimed criteria for contemporary art and its pedagogy Some propose turning toward affect and affirmation others seek to reclaim such allegedly discredited concepts as intimacy tenderness and spirituality With contributions from artists critics curators and historians this book provides new ways of thinking about the historical role of critique while also exploring a wide range of alternative methods and aspirations Beyond Critique will be a crucial tool for students and instructors who are seeking to think and work beyond the critical

Edgar Wind and Modern Art Ben Thomas, 2020-12-10 This book presents the first comprehensive study of the philosopher and art historian Edgar Wind s critique of modern art The first student of Erwin Panofsky and a close associate of Aby Warburg Edgar Wind was unusual among the Warburgians for his sustained interest in modern art together with his support for contemporary artists This culminated in his respected and influential book Art and Anarchy 1963 which seemed like a departure from his usual scholarly work on the iconography of Renaissance art Based on extensive archival research and bringing to light previously unpublished lectures Edgar Wind and Modern Art reveals the extent and seriousness of Wind s thinking about modern art and how it was bound up with theories about art and knowledge that he had developed during the 1920s and 30s Wind s ideas are placed in the context of a closely connected international cultural milieu consisting of some of the leading artists and thinkers of the twentieth century In particular the book discusses in detail his friendships with three significant artists Pavel Tchelitchew Ben Shahn and R B Kitaj In the process the existence of an alternative to the prevailing formalist approach of Alfred Barr and Clement Greenberg to modern art based on the enduring importance of the symbol is revealed

Art Criticism and Modernism in the United States Stephen Moonie, 2022-03-22 This study is an analysis of high and late modernist criticism in New York during the 1960s and early 1970s Through a close reading of a selection of key critics of the period which will expand the remit beyond the canonical texts the book examines the ways that modernist criticism s discourse remains of especial disciplinary interest Despite its alleged narrowness and exclusion the debates of the 1960s raised fundamental questions concerning the nature of art writing Those include arguments around the nature of value and judgement the relationship between art criticism and art history and the related problem of what we mean by the contemporary Stephen Moonie argues that within those often fractious debates there exists a shared discourse And further contrary to the current consensus that modernists were elitist dogmatic and irrelevant to contemporary debates on art the study shows that there is much that we can learn from reconsidering their writings The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history modern art art criticism and literary studies
