Springer,2014-01-15 Cross-Language Information Retrieval and Evaluation Carol Peters,2003-06-29 The first evaluation

campaign of the Cross Language Evaluation Forum CLEF for European languages was held from January to September 2000. The campaign culminated in a two day workshop in Lisbon Portugal 21-22 September immediately following the fourth European Conference on Digital Libraries ECDL 2000. The first day of the workshop was open to anyone interested in the area of Cross Language Information Retrieval CLIR and addressed the topic of CLIR system evaluation. The goal was to identify the actual contribution of evaluation to system development and to determine what could be done in the future to stimulate progress. The second day was restricted to participants in the CLEF 2000 evaluation campaign and to their experiments. This volume constitutes the proceedings of the workshop and provides a record of the campaign. CLEF is currently an activity of the DELOS Network of Excellence for Digital Libraries funded by the EC Information Society Technologies to further research in digital library technologies. The activity is organized in collaboration with the US National Institute of Standards and Technology NIST. The support of DELOS and NIST in the running of the evaluation campaign is gratefully acknowledged. I should also like to thank the other members of the Workshop Steering Committee for their assistance in the organization of this event.

Language and Representation in Information Retrieval David C. Blair, 1990. Information or Document Retrieval is the subject of this book. It is not an introductory book although it is self contained in the sense that it is not necessary to have a background in the theory or practice of Information Retrieval in order to understand its arguments. The book presents as clearly as possible one particular perspective on Information Retrieval and attempts to say that certain aspects of the theory or practice of the management of documents are more important than others. The majority of Information Retrieval research has been aimed at the more experimentally tractable small scale systems and although much of that work has added greatly to our understanding of Information Retrieval it is becoming increasingly apparent that retrieval systems with large data bases of documents are a fundamentally different genre of systems than small scale systems. If this is so which is the thesis of this book then we must now study large information retrieval systems with the same rigor and intensity that we once studied small scale systems. Hegel observed that the quantitative growth of any system caused qualitative changes to take place in its structure and processes.

Cross-Language Information Retrieval Gregory Grefenstette, 2012-12-06. Most of the papers in this volume were first presented at the Workshop on Cross Linguistic Information Retrieval that was held August 22 1996 during the SIGIR 96 Conference. Alan Smeaton of Dublin University and Patrick Sheridan of the ETH Zurich were the two other members of the Scientific Committee for this workshop SIGIR is the Association for Computing Machinery ACM Special Interest Group on Information Retrieval and they have held conferences yearly since 1977 Three additional papers have been added Chapter 4 Distributed Cross Lingual Information retrieval describes the EMIR retrieval system one of the first general cross language systems to be implemented and evaluated Chapter 6 Mapping Vocabularies Using Latent Semantic Indexing which originally appeared as a technical report in the Laboratory for Computational Linguistics at Carnegie Mellon University in 1991 is included here because it was one of the earliest though hard to find publications showing the application of Latent Semantic Indexing to the problem of cross language retrieval and Chapter 10 A Weighted Boolean Model for Cross Language Text Retrieval describes a recent approach to solving the translation term weighting problem specific to Cross Language Information Retrieval

Multilingual Information Access for Text, Speech and Images Paul Clough, Julio Gonzalo, Michael Kluck, Bernardo Magnini, 2005-08-25 The 5th campaign of the Cross Language Evaluation Forum CLEF for European languages was held from January to September 2004 Participation in the CLEF campaigns has increased each year and CLEF 2004 was no exception 55 groups submitted results for one or more of the different tracks compared with 42 groups in the previous year CLEF 2004 also marked a breaking point with respect to previous campaigns The focus was no longer mainly concentrated on multilingual document retrieval as in previous years but was diversified to include different kinds of text retrieval across languages e.g exact answers in the question answering track and retrieval on different kinds of media i.e not just plain text but collections containing image and speech as well In addition increasing attention was given to issues that regard system usability and user satisfaction with tasks to measure the effectiveness of interactive systems or system components being included in both the cross language question answering and image retrieval tasks with the collaboration of the coordinators of the interactive track The campaign culminated in a two and a half day workshop held in Bath UK 15-17 September immediately following the 8th European Conference on Digital Libraries The workshop was attended by nearly 100 researchers and system developers

Multilingual Information Access Evaluation I - Text Retrieval Experiments Carol Peters, Giorgio Maria Di Nunzio, Mikko Kurimo, Thomas Mandl, Djamel Mostefa, Anselmo Penas, Giovanna Roda, 2010-09-03 The tenth campaign of the Cross Language Evaluation Forum CLEF for European languages was held from January to September 2009 There were eight main evaluation tracks in CLEF 2009 plus a pilot task The aim as usual was to test the performance of a wide range of multilingual information access MLIA systems or system components This year about 150 groups mainly but not only from academia registered to participate in the campaign Most of the groups were from Europe

but there was also a good contingent from North America and Asia The results were presented at a two and a half day workshop held in Corfu Greece September 30 to October 2 2009 in conjunction with the European Conference on Digital Libraries The workshop attended by 160 researchers and system developers provided the opportunity for all the groups that had participated in the evaluation campaign to get together compare approaches and exchange ideas

Cross-Language Information Retrieval Jian-Yun Nie, 2022-05-31

Search for information is no longer exclusively limited within the native language of the user but is more and more extended to other languages This gives rise to the problem of cross language information retrieval CLIR whose goal is to find relevant information written in a different language to a query In addition to the problems of monolingual information retrieval IR translation is the key problem in CLIR one should translate either the query or the documents from a language to another However this translation problem is not identical to full text machine translation MT the goal is not to produce a human readable translation but a translation suitable for finding relevant documents Specific translation methods are thus required The goal of this book is to provide a comprehensive description of the specific problems arising in CLIR the solutions proposed in this area as well as the remaining problems The book starts with a general description of the monolingual IR and CLIR problems Different classes of approaches to translation are then presented approaches using an MT system dictionary based translation and approaches based on parallel and comparable corpora In addition the typical retrieval effectiveness using different approaches is compared It will be shown that translation approaches specifically designed for CLIR can rival and outperform high quality MT systems Finally the book offers a look into the future that draws a strong parallel between query expansion in monolingual IR and query translation in CLIR suggesting that many approaches developed in monolingual IR can be adapted to CLIR The book can be used as an introduction to CLIR Advanced readers can also find more technical details and discussions about the remaining research challenges in the future It is suitable to new researchers who intend to carry out research on CLIR
