Cross-linguistic Influence in Third Language Acquisition Jasone Cenoz, Britta Hufeisen, Ulrike Jessner, 2001-01-01

Third language acquisition is a common phenomenon which presents some specific characteristics as compared to second language acquisition. This volume adopts a psycholinguistic approach in the study of cross linguistic influence in third language acquisition and focuses on the role of previously acquired languages and the conditions that determine their influence.

Multidisciplinary Perspectives on Multilingualism Simona Montanari, Suzanne Quay, 2019-10-08

Multilingualism is a typical aspect of everyday life for most of the world's population; it has existed since the beginning of humanity and among individuals of all backgrounds. Nonetheless, it has often been treated as a variant of bilingualism or as a phenomenon unique to individual areas of study. The purpose of this book is to review current knowledge about the acquisition, use, and loss of multiple languages using a multidisciplinary perspective, highlighting the common themes and stimulating insights that can emerge when multilingualism is viewed from different but related areas of investigation. The chapters focus on research evidence showing that multilingualism is a complex phenomenon that involves a myriad of linguistic and extra-linguistic forces and that should be studied in its own right as evidence of human potential and capacity for language. The book is primarily addressed to students and scholars interested in deepening their understanding of the different facets of multilingualism, including the individual and societal circumstances that contribute to it, the cognitive and neural mechanisms that make it possible, and the dynamics involved in the acquisition, use, and loss of multiple languages.

Crosslinguistic Influence in Multilinguals Wai Lan Tsang, 2016-12-07. This book reports on a research project conducted in multilingual Hong Kong where Cantonese is the mother tongue (L1) of the majority of the population and learning different foreign languages is commonplace. In addition to English, which is usually the second language (L2), more and more people learn other languages such as French (L3). Drawing on the notions of interface and reverse transfer in second language acquisition, this book addresses the possible role of L3 French in the acquisition of English as an L2, with two major concerns: firstly, the degree to which L3 acquisition will bring about a positive or negative transfer effect on L2 acquisition; and secondly, the way in which an L3 interacts with an L2 and/or even an L1 on different interfaces as identified in second language acquisition. The study will appeal to researchers interested in second and third language acquisition, bi- and multilingualism, and crosslinguistic influence.

Intercultural Language Use and Language Learning Eva Alcon Soler, Maria Pilar Safont Jorda, 2007-05-24. Eva Alcon Soler, Maria Pilar Safont Jord. Universitat Jaume I, Spain. The main purpose of the present book is to broaden the scope of research on the development of intercultural communicative competence. Bearing this purpose in mind, English learners are considered as intercultural speakers who share their interest for engaging in real life communication. According to Byram and Fleming (1998), the intercultural speaker is someone with knowledge of one or more cultures and social identities and who enjoys discovering and maintaining relationships with people from other cultural backgrounds although s he has not been formally trained for that purpose Besides possessing knowledge of at least two cultures is the case of many learners in bilingual or multilingual communities In these contexts the objective of language learning should then focus on developing intercultural competence which in turn may involve promoting language diversity while encouraging English as both a means and an end of instruction see Alc n this volume This is the idea underlying the volume which further sustains Kramsch s argument 1998 against the native non native dichotomy Following that author we also believe that in a multilingual world where learners may belong to more than one speech community their main goal is not to become a native speaker of English but to use this language as a tool for interaction among many other languages and cultures

New Trends in Crosslinguistic Influence and Multilingualism Research Gessica De Angelis, Jean-Marc Dewaele, 2011-09-13 This book presents the latest developments in crosslinguistic influence CLI and multilingualism research The contributors both veteran researchers and relative newcomers to the field situate their research in current debates in terms of theory and data analysis and they present it in an accessible way The chapters investigate how and when native and non native language knowledge is used in language production They focus on lexis syntax tense aspect phonology of multilingual production and link it to a range of concepts such as redundancy affordances metalinguistic awareness and L2 status The empirical data have been collected from participants with a wide combination of languages besides English German French and Spanish there is Finnish Swedish Polish Chinese and Catalan

Content and Language Integrated Learning Yolanda Ruiz de Zarobe, Rosa Maria Jimenez Catalan, 2009-05-11 This book contributes to the growth of interest in Content and Language Integrated Learning CLIL an approach to second foreign language learning that requires the use of the target language to learn content Within the framework of European strategies to promote multilingualism CLIL has begun to be used extensively in a variety of language learning contexts and at different educational systems and language programmes This book brings together critical analyses on theoretical and implementation issues of Content and Language Integrated Learning and empirical studies on the effectiveness of this type of instruction on learners language competence The basic theoretical assumption behind this book is that through successful use of the language to learn content learners will develop their language proficiency more effectively while they learn the academic content specified in the curricula

Essential Topics in Applied Linguistics and Multilingualism Mirosław Pawlak, Larissa Aronin, 2013-09-18 This book brings together papers dealing with essential issues in applied linguistics and multilingualism that have been contributed by leading figures in these two fields and present state of the art developments in theory and research The first part includes articles touching on various aspects of multiple language acquisition with a particular emphasis on the role of affordances the interfaces between language and thought and factors influencing the process of language learning Part Two deals with individual variations in the acquisition of additional languages focusing in particular on the impact of such variables as age aptitude motivation and learning deficits Finally Part Three presents contributions illuminating key issues in the acquisition of different subsystems and skills such as grammar phonology lexis and writing systems Thanks to the diversity of perspectives on applied linguistics and multilingualism as well as the cutting edge nature of some of the proposals this edited collection will be an important reference work and a source of inspiration for theorists and researchers

On the Dynamics of Early Multilingualism Barbara Hofer, 2015-07-01 This book contributes to current issues in TLA and multilingualism research It discusses multilingual learning and development from a Dynamic Systems Theory perspective The author argues that trilingual education does not harm or confuse young learners but that the teaching of three languages from an early age carries positive implications for children s linguistic metalinguistic and crosslinguistic awareness

Third Or Additional Language Acquisition Gessica De Angelis, 2007 Examines the evidence available keeping two main questions in mind the first is whether multilinguals should be considered as learners and speakers in their own right and the second is how proficient in a non native language learners are supposed to be before they can begin to be classified as multilingual learners in empirical research
