Crossfire Education William Amos Jordan, 1996 This book discusses public education reform in the United States The author focuses on the relationship between education and a dynamic culture He proposes three metaphors which reveal the cultural breaks in the educational system The metaphors are mind as muscle mind as machine and mind as a technological system Jordan also provides a matrix in order to analyze education's relation to culture and societal changes Through his probing discussion the author poses questions designed to make the reader think intuitively He presents solutions but claims that real solutions must come from the people in the community This work is a look at educational theory that calls for a revolution in our system Jordan's enlightening work furnishes a fresh and positive look at what we can do about education culture and society

Education Review Global Learning and International Development in the Age of Neoliberalism Stephen

McCloskey,2021-10-13 This book argues that the international development sector is in crisis which can be mostly sourced to its side stepping the dominant development question of our age the neoliberal growth paradigm It argues that this crisis can be addressed at least in part by the sector's re engagement with the radical development education process that it helped to foster and sustain for over two decades The recent safeguarding scandal is symptomatic of a sector that is becoming overly hierarchical brand conscious and disconnected from its base This book argues that many of the problems the sector is facing can be sourced to its failings in grappling with the question of neoliberalism and formulating a coherent critique of how market orthodoxy has accelerated poverty in the global North and South This book recommends re embracing the radical origins of global learning situated in the participative methodology and praxis reflection and action of Paulo Freire both as internal capacity building and external public engagement The book proposes a new development paradigm focusing on bottomup participative approaches to policy making based on the needs of those NGOs claim to represent the poor marginalised and voiceless rather than constantly following the agenda of donors and governments The recommendations made by this book will serve as an important resource for researchers and students of international development and global learning as well as to NGOs civil society activists and education practitioners looking for solutions to the problems within the sector School Violence Intervention Jane Close Conoley,Arnold P. Goldstein,2004-07-26 This work offers effective intervention strategies for managing school violence Opening with a range of perspectives on student aggression it provides a comprehensive view on practical interventions at the student school and systems levels Practitioners present empirically grounded strategies for an array of school settings and situations seeking to help readers make informed decisions about the approaches that would be most effective in their own environments The first part of the text presents information on the nature and prevalence of youth violence today and outlines strategies geared toward making the school physically safer establishing clear behaviour standards providing adequate adult presence enforcing rules fairly and sanctioning offenders and creating partnerships with outside agencies The chapters that follow describe a range of interventions directed toward aggressive students themselves which have proved highly effective in outcome evaluation research These approaches include behavioural classroom management crises and gang orientated interventions and preventative pre school programmes In addition it details school orientated strategies such as academic and curriculum interventions vandalism control and effective security policy Exploring the complex relationship among school behaviour family life and community chapters also consider

Education ,1973 Educational Reform Jordan T. Ville,2001 This book brings together the literature in a field which may define the 21st century Can economic and technological progress continue with educational systems which seem to answer to no one but themselves and which output graduates who can barely read and write and who have only the faintest clue how to use a map This bibliography provides access via Title Author and Subject Indexes Contents Educational Accountability Educational Change Educational Equalisation Educational Leadership Educational Planning Educational Indicates The Nation's Schools Michael Vincent O'Shea,1957 In the Crossfire John P. Spencer,2012-08-16 As media reports declare crisis after crisis in public education Americans find themselves hotly debating educational inequalities that seem to violate their nation s ideals Why does success in school track so closely with race and socioeconomic status How to end these apparent achievement gaps In the Crossfire brings historical perspective to these debates by tracing the life and work of Marcus Foster an African American educator who struggled to reform urban schools in the 1960s and early 1970s As a teacher principal and superintendent first in his native Philadelphia and eventually in Oakland California Foster made success stories of urban schools and children whom others had dismissed as hopeless only to be assassinated in 1973 by the previously unknown Symbionese Liberation Army in a bizarre protest against an allegedly racist school system Foster s story encapsulates larger social changes in the decades after World War II the great black migration from South to North the civil rights movement the decline of American cities and the ever increasing emphasis on education as a ticket to success Well before the accountability agenda of the No Child Left Behind Act or the rise of charter schools Americans came into sharp conflict over urban educational failure with some blaming the schools and others pointing to conditions in homes and neighborhoods By focusing on an educator who worked in the trenches and had a reputation for bridging divisions In the Crossfire sheds new light on the continuing ideological debates over race poverty and achievement Foster charted a course between the extremes of demanding too little and expecting too much of schools as agents of opportunity in America He called for accountability not only from educators but also from families taxpayers and political and economic institutions His effort to mobilize multiple constituencies was a key to his success and a lesson for educators and policymakers who would take aim at achievement gaps without addressing the full range of school and nonschool factors that create them The
