

Directing the Play

SERIES IN PERFORMING ARTS

About the author

Tekena Gasper Mark is a Poet, Novelist, Director, and Dramatist with research interests in African Theatre, Film, and Performance Studies. He teaches in the Department of Theatre and Film Studies, Rivers State University, Nigeria, with over seven years of research and teaching experience. His book Ideas on Directing Experimental Theatre (Nigeria, 2016) provides insights into how directors can realize experimental performances with perspectives from Western and Nigerian directors. He holds a Ph.D. in Play Directing and teaches directing, playwriting, dramatic theory and criticism, and music theatre. He has written plays, directed shows, and published articles in scholarly journals. His current research interests include digital performances, audience research, ecocriticism, theatre and migration studies. While his play, The Women's War, was shortlisted for the 2022 African Writers Awards, Mark is in the process of publishing a collection of his plays on historical and contemporary African issues, as well as a course textbook on playwriting.

Summary

Numerous books have been written on the art of directing from the classical to contemporary times. Many of these works have concentrated on different facets of the discipline of directing such as the definition, history, and development of directing, as well as the qualities, functions, and types of directors. However, areas of directing that have not received much scholarly attention include works that serve as manuals for budding directors and studies that reflect the theory and practice of directing in Africa, especially from Nigerian theatre practitioners.

While studies on directing, such as Wainstein's Stage Directing: A Director's Itinerary (2012), Dean and Carra's Fundamentals of Play Directing (2009), and Johnson's Visions Towards a Mission: The Art of Interpretative Directing (2003), provide general insights on the art of directing plays, Emaseabu's The Theatre of Ola Rotimi: Production and Performance Dynamics (2010) and Uwatt's Playwriting and Directing in Nigeria: Interviews with Ola Rotimi (2004), document the directorial practice of the Nigerian director, Ola Rotimi. Aside from documenting the directing techniques of key Western directors, this book's advantage over existing works is that it documents the directorial styles of Ola Rotimi and other West African directors, as well as the directorial techniques of directors from South, North, and East Africa. It also traces the evolution of the theatre stage, examines the directorial implications of the arena, proscenium, thrust, traverse and African traditional theatre stage orientations, and engages the notions of blocking, movement, directorial concept and directorial approach. In particular, this book aspires to contribute to the discourse on play directing with perspectives from African theatre. It also fills gaps in previous studies by delving into the notions of theatre and directing, the director's history, qualities, and tools. It examines types of directors, functions of the director, directing principles, and key Western and African theories of performance. It also evaluates the history of the theatre stage, the characteristics, benefits and drawbacks, and directorial implications of the arena stage, proscenium stage, thrust stage, traverse stage, African traditional theatre stage, the use of blocking, movement, and the meaning of directorial concept and directorial approach.

Report from the Joint Select Committee of the House of Lords & the House of Commons... Great Britain. Parliament, Joint select committee on stage plays (censorship), 1909 Play Directing Francis Hodge, 1971 This new book play Directing Analysis Communication and style is a complete study of the processes of directing modern and historical plays in the contemporary theatre It is a practical guide that shows the director how to get to the play s structure and how to communicate with actors and with designers Play analysis is not treated from a literary point of view but as a hard core technique for setting up communication The young director is made aware of his responsibility for the guts of a play as well as for its physical looks He is led step by step through a technique of how to take a play apart and then how to put it together again through a delicate process of maneuvering actors and designers into appropriate visual oral expression of the play's values. The advanced director is guided through everyday on the job problems and is introduced to the nature of style in dramatic production. He is shown how to achieve individuality and how to convey these interpretations in play production. In developing this concept of directing acting and the use of the physical stage are closely interlinked. The director becomes the leader, the principal designer. Effective techniques of communication are essential. These are primarily improvisational, a method of actor discovery and of director communication that establish the aims, style and individuality the director wishes to convey. Play Directing Analysis: Communication and Style describes the way a director needs to think and work in today's modern theatre.
