

The Director in the Classroom: How Filmmaking Inspires Learning - Version 2.0 (Updated 2009)

DESCRIPTION

The Director in the Classroom provides the "Why" for digital video in the classroom in a clear and concisely written book. The book first looks at "Why" filmmaking is an important tool in 21st century classrooms and then explains, step by step, "How" filmmaking projects take shape in the classroom by developing ideas, forming a plan, filming, editing and presenting the final film in the classroom and beyond. At every step, it examines how the filmmaking process fosters the development of personal, social and higher-order thinking skills. Over 25 filmmaking black line masters are included in digital form, ready to use and adapt in your classroom. "The best production handbook for teachers that we've seen!" Center for Media Literacy One of the best, practical texts on digital storytelling and using filmmaking in the classroom written to date. -Wesley Fryer, speedofcreativity.org

The Media, Animal Conservation and Environmental Education John Blewitt, 2013-10-31 Natural History filmmaking has a long history but the generic boundaries between it and environmental and conservation filmmaking are blurred Nature environment and animal imagery has been a mainstay of television campaigning organisations and conservation bodies from Greenpeace to the Sierra Club with vibrant images being used effectively on posters leaflets and postcards and in coffee table books media releases short films and viral emails to educate and inform the general public However critics suggest that wildlife film and photography frequently convey a false image of the state of the world's flora and fauna The environmental educator David Orr once remarked that all education is environmental education and it is possible to see all image based communication in the same way The Media Animal Conservation and Environmental Education has contributions from filmmakers photographers researchers and academics from across the globe It explores the various ways in which film television and video are and can be used by conservationists and educators to encourage both a greater awareness of environmental and conservation issues and practical action designed to help endangered species This book is based on a special issue of the journal Environmental Education Research

Learning and Leading with Technology, 2001 Digital Storytelling with PowerPoint Mark Standley, 2003 Visual and Performing Arts Framework, 2004 Reading Shakespeare with Young Adults Mary Ellen Dakin, 2009 Although the works of William Shakespeare are universally taught in high schools many students have a similar reaction when confronted with the difficult task of reading Shakespeare for the first time In Reading Shakespeare with Young Adults Mary Ellen Dakin seeks to help teachers better understand not just how to teach the Bard's work but also why. By celebrating the collaborative reading of Shakespeare's plays Dakin explores different methods for getting students engaged and excited about the texts as they learn to construct meaning from Shakespeare's sixteenth century language and connect it to their twenty first century lives. Filled with teacher tested classroom activities this book draws on often taught plays including Hamlet Romeo and Juliet Macbeth Julius Caesar and A Midsummer Night's Dream. The ideas and strategies presented here are designed to be used with any of the Bard's plays and are intended to help all populations of students mainstream minority bilingual advanced at risk.
