Francis Wharton

Dirty Death:

A Dirty Death Rebecca Tope, 2012-05-28 When irascible farmer Guy Beardon meets a very dirty death in his own farmyard at first it seems like an accident despite the fact that he was widely disliked Only his daughter Lilah is prepared to defend his memory And when slowly Lilah begins to suspect foul play no one is eager to help her investigate Suspicion becomes certainty when two more deaths occur and both of them are unmistakably murder The difficulty lies in discovering who among Guy's many enemies hated him enough to want him dead and who went on killing to conceal the truth There is certainly no shortage of suspects and it falls to local policeman Den Cooper to investigate the mysterious deaths

From Modernist Entombment to Postmodernist Exhumation Lisa K. Perdigao, 2016-04-22 How fictional representations of dead bodies develop over the twentieth century is the central concern of Lisa K Perdigao's study of American writers Arguing that the crisis of bodily representation can be traced in the move from modernist entombment to postmodernist exhumation Perdigao considers how works by writers from F Scott Fitzgerald William Faulkner Willa Cather and Richard Wright to Jody Shields Toni Morrison Octavia Butler and Jeffrey Eugenides reflect changing attitudes about dying death and mourning For example while modernist writers direct their plots toward a transformation of the dead body by way of metaphor postmodernist writers exhume the transformed body reasserting its materiality Rather than viewing these tropes in oppositional terms Perdigao examines the implications for narrative of the authors' apparently contradictory attempts to recover meaning at the site of loss She argues that entombment and exhumation are complementary drives that speak to the tension between the desire to bury the dead and the need to remember indicating shifts in critical discussions about the body and about the function of aesthetics in relation to materialized violence and loss
