Crisis In Modern Social Psychology How To End It:

The Crisis in Modern Social Psychology Ian Parker, 2013-10-18 In the late 1960s a crisis erupted in social psychology with many social psychologists highly critical of the old paradigm laboratory experimental approach Originally published in 1989 The Crisis in Modern Social Psychology was the first book to provide a clear account of the complex body of work that is critical of traditional social psychological approaches Ian Parker insisted that the crisis was not over showing how attempts to improve social psychology had failed and explaining why we need instead a political understanding of social interaction which links research with change Modern social psychology reflects the impact of structuralist and post structuralist conceptual crises in other academic disciplines and Parker describes the work of Foucault and Derrida sympathetically and lucidly making these important debates accessible to the student and discussing their influence He assesses the responses from both mainstream social psychology and from avant garde textual social psychology to the influx of these radical ideas and discusses the promises and pitfalls of a post modern view of social action

The Crisis in Modern Social Psychology, and how to End it Ian Parker, 1989 Ian Parker argues that the crisis in social psychology will not be resolved unless two crucial problems are dealt with power and ideology His final chapter provides some controversial rules for radicals who wish to survive the discipline

A History of "Relevance" in Psychology Wahbie Long, 2016-06-23 This book represents the first attempt to historicise and theorise appeals for relevance in psychology It argues that the persistence of questions about the relevance of psychology derives from the discipline's terminal inability to define its subject matter its reliance on a socially disinterested science to underwrite its knowledge claims and its consequent failure to address itself to the needs of a rapidly changing world The chapters go on to consider the relevance debate within South African psychology by critically analysing discourse of forty five presidential keynote and opening addresses delivered at annual national psychology congresses between 1950 and 2011 and observes how appeals for relevance were advanced by reactionary progressive and radical psychologists alike The book presents moreover the provocative thesis that the revolutionary quest for social relevance that began in the 1960s has been supplanted by an ethic of marketrelevance that threatens to isolate the discipline still further from the anxieties of broader society With powerful interest groups continuing to co opt psychologists without relent this is a development that only psychologists of conscience can arrest

Personhood and Social Robotics Raya A Jones, 2015-12-14 An exponentially growing industry human robot interaction HRI research has drawn predominantly upon psychologists descriptions of mechanisms of face to face dyadic interactions This book considers how social robotics is beginning unwittingly to confront an impasse that has been a perennial dilemma for psychology associated with the historical science vs art debate Raya Jones examines these paradigmatic tensions and in tandem considers ways in which the technology centred discourse both reflects and impacts upon understanding our relational nature Chapters in the book explore not only how the technology centred discourse constructs machines as us but also how humans feature in this discourse Focusing on how the social interaction is conceptualised when the human robot interaction is discussed this book addresses issues such as the long term impact on persons and society authenticity of relationships and challenges to notions of personhood By leaving aside terminological issues Jones attempts to transcend ritual of pitching theories against each other in order to comprehensively analyse terms such as subjectivity self and personhood and their fluid interplay in the world that we inhabit Personhood and Social Robotics will be a key text for postgraduate students researchers and scholars interested in the connection between technology and human psychology including psychologists science and technology studies scholars media studies scholars and humanists The book will also be of interest to roboticists and HRI researchers as well as those studying or working in areas of artificial intelligence and interactive technologies more generally

Culture, Power, and Difference Ann Levett,1997 The book shows how discourse perspectives can provide a framework for critical intervention and radical political engagement The first part focuses on discursive expression of the process of dismantling the apartheid regime Part two addresses issues of gender and sexuality in popular cult everyday talk counselling practice and preventative health policy issues historically framed within racialized discourses Qualitative Methods and Analysis in Organizational Research Gillian Symon,1998-08-25 The field of qualitative research methods has been an expanding one in recent years with a considerable growth in texts devoted to both philosophical and practical concerns This book is a useful addition to the latter category The contributors of this book show a range of responses to the dilemma and in so doing so fulfil the editors goal of providing a snapshot and an eclectic guide book to the range of qualitative methods

Environment & Planning A ,1991 Free Associations ,1993 Cultural Representations Shi-xu,1997

Traditionally language has been used as a means of discovering psychological realities The present book takes a discourse analytical approach to mental representations and focuses on the language of thought as its very topic of inquiry Special attention is paid to the role of discursive structures and processes in creating mental states and to the social purposes and consequences of such mental texts and talk Empirical studies of interpurposes and consequences of such mental text and talk Empirical studies of interviews with expatriate Chinese academics about the Dutch and of Dutch travel literature on China show that perceptions attitudes attributions ideologies etc are integrated components of social interaction which serve to project particular cultural identities Sociological Abstracts ,1994 Social Theory After Post-modernism Anthony Woodiwiss,1990 Setting out to exemplify a new approach to social theory one forged in the course of a critical dialogue between Postmodernism and Marxism this book departs from classical Marxist thought By directly engaging with issues in social and political theory the book offers a way forward for a new and revitalised Marxist tradition The book does not fit within any single disciplinary boundary but challenges the limits imposed by conventional boundaries The author breaks with the usual Postmodernism versus Marxism syndrome and defies that brand of Postmodernism that pronounces the death of social theory Through a deconstructive rethinking of the central concepts of production law and class he attempts to demonstrate ways in which a transformed Marxism can take on board and benefit from Postmodernism and deconstruction without lapsing into post Marxism
