[Boston] Edward MacDowell,W. J. Baltzell,2017-09-26 Trieste Publishing has a massive catalogue of classic book titles Our aim is to provide readers with the highest quality reproductions of fiction and non fiction literature that has stood the test of time The many thousands of books in our collection have been sourced from libraries and private collections around the world The titles that Trieste Publishing has chosen to be part of the collection have been scanned to simulate the original Our readers see the books the same way that their first readers did decades or a hundred or more years ago Books from that period are often spoiled by imperfections that did not exist in the original Imperfections could be in the form of blurred text photographs or missing pages It is highly unlikely that this would occur with one of our books Our extensive quality control ensures that the readers of Trieste Publishing s books will be delighted with their purchase Our staff has thoroughly reviewed every page of all the books in the collection repairing or if necessary rejecting titles that are not of the highest quality This process ensures that the reader of one of Trieste Publishing s titles receives a volume that faithfully reproduces the original and to the maximum degree possible gives them the experience of owning the original work We pride ourselves on not only creating a pathway to an extensive reservoir of books of the finest quality but also providing value to every one of our readers Generally Trieste books are purchased singly on demand however they may also be purchased in bulk Readers interested in bulk purchases are invited to contact us directly to enquire about our tailored bulk rates

Critical and Historical Essays Lectures Delivered at Columbia University W J (Winton James) Baltzell, 2018-06-27 Critical and Historical Essays Lectures delivered at Columbia University by W J Winton James Baltzell Darwin s theory that music had its origin in the sounds made by the half human progenitors of man during the season of courtship seems for many reasons to be inadequate and untenable A much more plausible explanation it seems to me is to be found in the theory of Theophrastus in which the origin of music is attributed to the whole range of human emotion When an animal utters a cry of joy or pain it expresses its emotions in more or less definite tones and at some remote period of the earth s history all primeval mankind must have expressed its emotions in much the same manner When this inarticulate speech developed into the use of certain sounds as symbols for emotions emotions that otherwise would have been expressed by the natural sounds occasioned by them then we have the beginnings of speech as distinguished from music which is still the universal language In other words intellectual development begins with articulate speech leaving music for the expression of the emotions We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience

Critical and Historical Essays [on Music]. Lectures Delivered at Columbia University ... Edited by W.J. Baltzell Edward MacDowell, 1912 Critical and Historical Essays [on Music], Lectures Delivered at Columbia University by Edward Macdowell, Edited by W. J. Baltzell Edward MacDowell, 1912 The Old Yellow Book: Source of Robert Browning's The Ring and the Book Various, 2019-12-12 The Old Yellow Book Source of Robert Browning's The Ring and the Book serves as a pivotal examination of the intricate intertextual relationships within Browning's poetic masterpiece This compilation of documents transcriptions and analyses illuminates the historical and literary frameworks from which Browning drew inspiration The editors skillfully navigate through the complex tapestry of 19th century Italy revealing how Browning's innovative use of multiple perspectives and dramatic monologues is rooted in real judicial proceedings This meticulous exploration provides critical insights into Browning's stylistic experimentation blending rich narrative with philosophical inquiry elements that define his unique voice in the Victorian literary landscape The collection is brought together by a diverse team of scholars each motivated by a desire to unveil the layers of meaning behind Browning's enigmatic work Their collective expertise spans literary criticism history and poetic form suggesting that deep engagement with Browning's sources is essential for comprehending the broader implications of his writing The various perspectives encapsulated in this volume reflect the very complexity Browning embraced offering a faithful homage to his artistic vision For readers captivated by the depths of Browning's work or those seeking to understand the foundations of The Ring and the Book this critical resource is indispensable It not only enhances one's appreciation for Browning's artistry but also invites further reflection on the intersection of literature and law the subjective nature of truth and the moral dilemmas present in his narrative Dive into this essential compilation and enrich your understanding of one of the Victorian era's greatest poets
