Criticism History And Intertextuality:

Criticism, History, and Intertextuality Richard Fleming, Michael Payne, 1988 Exploring the dynamics of intertextuality this collection begins with the origins of the idea of the poem as autonomous and coherent object in American New Criticism and the relationship of that idea to the rhetoric of Brooks's Kantian sense of history Succeeding essays demonstrate the intriguing patterns of intertextuality

Influence and Intertextuality in Literary History Jay Clayton, Eric Rothstein, 1991 This important collection explores and clarifies two of the most contested ideas in literary theory today influence and intertextuality The study of influence tends to center on major authors and canonical works identifying prior documents as sources or contexts for a given author Intertextuality on the other hand is a concept unconcerned with authors as individuals it treats all texts as part of a network of discourse that includes culture history and social practices as well as other literary works In thirteen essays drawing on the entire spectrum of English and American literary history this volume considers the relationship between these two terms their rivalry their kinship their range of uses Debates about these two concepts have been crucial to the new historicism and the resurgence of interest in literary history The essays in this volume employ a refreshing array of examples from that history poetry of the Renaissance and the twentieth century novels of the eighteenth through twentieth centuries Old English texts and postmodernist productions that have served as recurrent intertexts for contemporary theory The contributors treat such currently vital questions as the role of the author canon formation gender causality and the social dimension of texts They illuminate old assumptions and new ideas about agency that lie behind notions of influence and they examine models of an anonymous textual field that lie behind notions of intertextuality The volume takes much of its character from its own intertextual origin as a group project of the English faculty at the University of Wisconsin Madison Though diverse in their academic interests concerns and experience the contributors participated in an ongoing intellectual exchange that is a model of how new scholarship can arise from dialogue

History and Poetics of Intertextuality Marko Juvan, 2008 The poetics of intertextuality proposed in this book based mainly on semiotics elucidates factors determining the socio historically elusive border between general intertextuality and citationality and explores modes of intertextual representation

The Intertextuality between Julian Barnes's "Flaubert's Parrot" and Gustave Flaubert's Works and Written Remains Lisa Hyna, 2018-10-08 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2013 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 2.7 LMU Munich language English abstract The English writer Julian Barnes has developed an experimental style during his writing career which spans twenty two novels as well as numerous essays and short stories His novel Flaubert's Parrot which was his third published book in 1984 marked an important milestone in his career and shaped his image as an outstandingly talented writer who is fearless of unconventional writing In the year 2005 Julian Barnes wrote an article in honor of the twentieth anniversary of the book called When Flaubert took wing for the Guardian In that article he described how the idea for the novel came to his mind when he experienced finding two different parrots in Flaubert's hometown which both claimed to be the original parrot Flaubert worked with. The result was the Booker Prize short-listed novel Flaubert's Parrot. In the novel, he merges a postmodern style within a biographical story that is profoundly thought-provoking. Neil Brooks described the novel in his comparison to The Good Soldier as part novel and part criticism of both modern and postmodern theories of textuality. Meanwhile, Barnes presents his impressively extensive research on Gustave Flaubert and incorporates his knowledge into the text in a very entertaining way. Due to its experimental style and unconventional structure, the book caused a controversial debate whether or not it is still accurate to call it a novel. The extensive sections that do not follow a coherent storyline and the excursions on literary critical topics complicated the book's classification and categorization into a specific genre. However, Barnes himself claimed that he considers his work as nothing else than a novel. Therefore, and due to the fact that different publishers decided to define it as a novel as well, this thesis will refer to Flaubert's Parrot as a novel too. After all, literary studies deal with Flaubert's Parrot as a postmodern novel, and it has often been categorized within the genre of fictional metabiography. Scholars focused often on the two stories the book offers. Namely, the one story is the search for Flaubert's parrot, and the other one is about the main character's past. Both stories are connected through intertextual references that are an interesting issue for literary critics. In particular, the intertextual devices in the novel were often subject for literary studies that aimed to interpret its deeper meaning.

Intertextuality in Tayeb Salih's Season of Migration to the North Sofia Samatar, 1997 Ezekiel and Eschatological Violence Alicia R. Jackson, 2025-01-07 This monograph explores the topic of eschatological violence in Pentecostal biblical interpretation of Ezek 36 16 39 29 Rev 19 11 21 and Rev 20 7 10. By reviewing Pentecostal reception history of these texts, considering the influence of classical dispensationalism on Pentecostal biblical interpretation and eschatology, this study offers a peace reading that aligns with both early Pentecostal writers and contemporary Pentecostal scholars whose eschatology departs from classical dispensationalism. This monograph builds a case for envisioning a hopeful and proleptic premillennial eschatology that emphasizes the peace and reconciliation of the gospel more than end-times war and violence.

The Intertextuality of the Epistles Thomas L. Brodie, Dennis Ronald MacDonald, Stanley E. Porter, 2006 The international conference held in Limerick, Ireland, in May 2005 produced far more than the usual collection of loosely related papers. Rather, this volume from the 17 contributors demarcates and organizes a whole field, serving as an indispensable introduction to intertextuality in general and as an original examination of the topic in relation to the New Testament epistles. CONTENTS: Thomas L. Brodie, Dennis R. MacDonald and Stanley E. Porter, Introduction: Tracing the Development of the Epistles: The Potential and the Problem. Timothy Findley and the Aesthetics of Fascism Anne Elizabeth Bailey, 1998 Investigates the troubling relationship between narrative meaning and representations of violence within Timothy Findley's novels History and Ideology in the Old Testament Prophetic Literature Antti Laato, 1996 In this study arguments are put forward for the thesis that biblical exegesis of the Old Testament prophetic literature is not a simple matter of interpreting texts but is also a process in which logical models or possible worlds are constructed to accommodate the validity of particular interpretations The lack of a model theoretical orientation to Old Testament methodological approaches has led to a situation in which the criticism of particular theories rarely addresses the real points of disagreement between scholars One theory is simply set against another even though the theories would be more effectively evaluated by discussing the validity and relevance of the different models in which they are framed There are various plausible and relevant models available for the interpretation of Old Testament texts In order to compare these different models a metalogical system Charles Sanders Peirce's semiotics has been used throughout this study Many important methodological issues are discussed in this study a Postmodernist Intertextuality in David Mitchell's Cloud Atlas Martina Hrubes, 2008-07-09 Thesis M A from the year 2008 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 1 0 University of Frankfurt Main Institut f r England und Amerikastudien language English abstract The title of this study is Postmodernist Intertextuality in David Mitchell's Cloud Atlas and is based on the following hypotheses 1 There is a particular kind of intertextuality specific to postmodernist literature that differs from previous uses of intertextual references 2 Postmodernist intertextuality is deconstructive self reflexive and critical of Western hegemonic discourses and metanarratives 3 This specific kind of intertextuality is a key element of postmodernist art The first part of this work is going to outline some of the social and historical developments that have been associated with the postmodern condition and the rise of new art forms which respond to these changes Lyotard's description of postmodernity as an age that is marked by its profound incredulity toward metanarratives The Postmodern Condition A Report on Knowledge xxiv is of particular significance to this study especially his critique of the so called Enlightenment narrative xxiii with its humanist values This definition helps understand the interaction between postmodern theory and postmodernist art which are both directed against the same universalist assumptions In the second part of this study the concept of postmodernist intertextuality is applied to David Mitchell's novel Cloud Atlas Intertextuality as an Inherent Tool for the Composition and Interpretation of Texts. A Theoretical Reappraisal Ayenew Guadu, 2023-04-14 Academic Paper from the year 2023 in the subject Literature General grade 13 Bahir Dar University Faculty of Humanities language English abstract The aim of this paper is to discuss the operational concepts and theory of intertextuality as a postmodern theory Postmodern theory is a theory that emerged in the second half of the 1960s This theory was born as a reaction to modernity and its ideals By the 1970s postmodern aesthetics on which postmodern theory was based began to be felt in almost every field of art from architecture to painting from literature to cinema Intertextuality seems such a useful term because it foregrounds notions of relationality interconnectedness and interdependence in modern cultural life In the Postmodern epoch theorists often claim it is not possible any longer to speak of originality or the uniqueness of the artistic object be it a painting or novel since every artistic object is so clearly assembled from bits and pieces of already existent art An author or poet can use intertextuality deliberately for a variety of reasons They would probably choose different ways of highlighting intertextuality depending on their intention They may use references directly or indirectly They might use a reference to create additional layers of meaning or make a point or place their work within a particular framework A writer could also use a reference to create humour highlight an inspiration or even create a reinterpretation of an existing work The reasons and ways to use intertextuality are so varied that it is worth looking at each example to establish why and how the method was used Postmodern theory is an approach that is the sum of certain breaking moments occurring in the historical development of the western societies Intertextuality is one of the most important elements among postmodern elements of literature Postmodernism is a decentered concept of the universe in which individual works are not isolated creations It means that much of the focus in the study of postmodern literature is settled down on intertextuality Intertextuality has been the relationship between one text and another or one text within the interwoven fabric of literary history An indication of postmodernism's lack of originality and reliance on clichés are pointed out by the famous critics It is a reference or parallel to another literary work and an extended discussion of a work or the adoption of a style

Intertextuality Jeanine Parisier Plottel, Hanna Kurz Charney, 1978 Goethe as Cultural Icon Nancy Birch Wagner, 1994 The legacy of Goethe in the nineteenth century is familiar and fertile territory to literary scholars In contrast with typical influence studies which compare Goethe with his epigonal successors this work breaks new ground in previously unappreciated areas and in several subtle forms Focusing on two prominent and distinctly different nineteenth century writers the Austrian Adalbert Stifter 1805 1868 and the Prussian born Theodor Fontane 1819 1898 the book discovers the importance of Goethe's views on the visual arts to the realistic theorizing of both writers by deftly encompassing several seventeenth century Dutch genre painters as well as the nineteenth century sculptor of the Brandenburg Gate in this sphere of aesthetic influence Of particular interest to the study of Goethe's resonance are the role of George Henry Lewes's 1855 biography of Goethe and the reverberation of Goethe's concept of Gegenständlichkeit which are studied within the context of their writings and the era in general
