Critics At Work Interviews 1993 2003 Cultural Front:

Crip Theory Robert McRuer, 2006-06 McRuer makes a case that queer and disabled identities politics and cultural logics are inexorably intertwined and that queer and disability theory need one another Crip theory makes clear that no cultural analysis is complete without attention to the politics of bodily ability and alternative corporealities The Disarticulate James Berger, 2014-05-23 Language is integral to our social being But what is the status of those who stand outside of language The mentally disabled wild children people with autism and other neurological disorders as well as animals infants angels and artificial intelligences have all engaged with language from a position at its borders In the intricate verbal constructions of modern literature the disarticulate those at the edges of language have paradoxically played essential defining roles Drawing on the disarticulate figures in modern fictional works such as Billy Budd The Sound and the Fury Nightwood White Noise and The Echo Maker among others James Berger shows in this intellectually bracing study how these characters mark sites at which aesthetic philosophical ethical political medical and scientific discourses converge It is also the place of the greatest ethical tension as society confronts the needs and desires of the least of its brothers Berger argues that the disarticulate is that which is unaccountable in the discourses of modernity and thus stands as an alternative to the prevailing social order Using literary history and theory as well as disability and trauma theory he examines how these disarticulate figures reveal modernity s anxieties in terms of how it constructs its others The Left at War Michael Bérubé, 2011-07 The terrorist attacks of 9 11 and Bush's belligerent response fractured the American left partly by putting pressure on little noticed fissures that had appeared a decade earlier In a masterful survey of the post 9 11 landscape renowned scholar Michael B rub revisits and reinterprets the major intellectual debates and key players of the last two decades covering the terrain of left debates in the United States over foreign policy from the Balkans to 9 11 to Iraq and over domestic policy from the culture wars of the 1990s to the question of what if anything is the matter with Kansas The Left at War brings the history of cultural studies to bear on the present crisis a history now trivialized to the point at which few left intellectuals have any sense that merely cultural studies could have something substantial to offer to the world of international relations debates over sovereignty and humanitarian intervention matters of war and peace The surprising results of B rub s arguments reveal an American left that is overly fond of a form of countercultural politics in which popular success is understood as a sign of political failure and political marginality is understood as a sign of moral virtue The Left at War insists that in contrast to American countercultural traditions the geopolitical history of cultural studies has much to teach us about internationalism for in order to think globally we need to think culturally and in order to understand cultural conflict we need to think globally At a time when America finds itself at a critical crossroads The Left at War is an indispensable guide to the divisions that have created a left at war with itself Publications of the Modern Language Association of America Modern Language Association of America, 2004 No University Is an Island Cary Nelson, 2011-10

Rural Commercial Capital Barbara Harriss-White, 2008 Agricultural performance is influenced by agricultural commodity markets However the importance of these markets has largely been ignored by agricultural policymakers and mainstream economists This pioneering study covering both the pre and the post liberalization periods and West Bengal s transformation from a seriously deficit to a surplus state conceives of the post harvest sector as a system of markets It shows how while West Bengal enjoyed the results of a reformed agrarian system the market system remained unreformed until recently The book sheds light on the role and importance of distribution and commodity markets in shaping and spreading the benefits of higher productivity across society An original analysis of the regulation of markets by institutions of collective action and social identity as well as by the state the book discusses a regulatory policy that could be adopted by any government irrespective of its ideology Barbara Harriss White's quarter century of field work in West Bengal has yielded new insights into the political economy where ethno cultural networks and informal finance have led to a polarization of agro commercial power on the one hand and a proliferation of livelihoods for small traders in the post harvest market system on the other Challenging many of the claims of orthodox political economy this well researched volume offers a new interpretation of rural development over three decades of communist rule The Baseball Bibliography Myron J.
