Critique And Conviction:

Critique and Conviction Paul Ricœur, François Azouvi, Marc B. de Launay, 1998 In the first of eight conversations Ricœur traces the trajectory of his life recounting the origins of his convictions and the development of his intellect during the tragic events of the twentieth century Declaring himself the son of a victim of the First World War Ricœur an orphan sketches his early years in the house of stern but loving grandparents and the molding of his intellect under the tutelage of Roland Dalbiez Gabriel Marcel and Andre Philip Ricœur tells the intriguing story of his capture and five year imprisonment by the Germans during World War II when he and his compatriots fashioned an intellectual life complete with a library and lectures and when he amazingly was able to continue his dissertation research Paul Ricœur's Philosophical Anthropology as Hermeneutics of Liberation Roger W.H. Savage, 2020-11-09 This book offers a unique account of the role imagination plays in advancing the course of freedom's actualization It draws on Paul Ricœur's philosophical anthropology of the capable human being as the staging ground for an extended inquiry into the challenges of making freedom a reality within the history of humankind This book locates the abilities we exercise as capable human beings at the heart of a sustained analysis and reflection on the place of the idea of justice in a hermeneutics for which every expectation regarding rights liberties and opportunities must be a hope for humanity as a whole The vision of a reconciled humanity that for Ricœur figures in a philosophy of the will provides an initial touchstone for a hermeneutics of liberation rooted in a philosophical anthropology for which the pathos of human misery is its non or pre philosophical source By setting the idea of the humanity in each of us against the backdrop of the necessity of preserving the tension between the space of our experiences and the horizons of our expectations the book identifies the ethical and political dimensions of the idea of justice's federating force with the imperative of respect Paul Ricœur's Philosophical Anthropology as Hermeneutics of Liberation will be of interest to scholars and advanced students working in hermeneutics phenomenology ethics political theory and aesthetics Pathos and Praxis Scott Davidson, 2025-04-01 Pathos and Praxis presents a new and original framework for an integrated phenomenology of life It provides the first comparative study of two influential French philosophers Paul Ricœur and Michel Henry and shows that their debates over the interpretation of Sigmund Freud and Karl Marx signal two rival approaches to the phenomenology of life Author Scott Davidson demonstrates that while Henry reveals the phenomenological meaning of life through an inward turn to a pure subjective feeling of being alive Ricœur anchors its significance in the reciprocal interaction between the self and the world But these two alternatives are not necessarily opposed Pathos and Praxis proposes an integrated phenomenology of life to which both Henry and Ricœur make an important contribution To be a self is to suffer the pathos of having a life but also to be capable of engaging in the praxis of leading a life By thinking the pathos and praxis of life together the integrated approach preserves human agency against deterministic conceptions of life and at the same time avoids the meritocratic hubris that depicts one's life solely as the result of one's own doing This integration of having and
