Cross Cultural Communication And Aging In The United States:

Cross-cultural Communication and Aging in the United States Hana Noor Al-Deen, 2013-10-18 Recently the communication discipline has devoted increasing energy toward the study of aging yet most of the research has insufficiently addressed a crucial factor in communicative relationships culture Meanwhile cross cultural intercultural communication has not adequately addressed the aging process Combining three powerful elements communication aging and culture all of which have an increasingly profound impact on today s multicultural society this book focuses on older Americans in various communicative contexts within the framework of their cultures Composed of original research by experts in their respective fields the book combines communication aging and culture for a unique examination of those elements in American society Section 1 deals with perspectives in cross cultural communication and aging These perspectives both illustrate the issues that greatly affect the lives of our elders and suggest ways to improve their status Section 2 showcases three American co cultures Hawaiian Arab and Mormon illustrate how language attitudes and mentoring can serve as the links for maintaining cross generational continuity in multicultural society Section 3 demonstrates that many American organizations frequently contribute to the hardships that both internal elder customers employees and external elder customers residents and patients must endure Section 4 incorporates popular culture and aging It presents the role of selective popular media in portraying our elders Because Americans rely heavily on the media their mediated perceptions can have a profound impact on their attitudes toward the older population Designed as a reader or supplementary text for college students in communication gerontology anthropology sociology and other related fields this text can also be used by professionals in gerontological service areas by libraries and as a personal reference It offers extensive appendices figures and tables for additional reference The Arab-American Experience in the United States and Canada Michael W. Suleiman, 2006

Successful Aging Sheung-Tak Cheng, Iris Chi, Helene H. Fung, Lydia W. Li, Jean Woo, 2015-01-26 This book brings together state of the art research on successful aging in Asian populations and highlights how the factors that contribute to successful aging differ from those in the West It examines the differences between the Asian and Western contexts in which the aging process unfolds including cultural values lifestyles physical environments and family structures In addition it examines the question of how to add quality to longer years of life Specifically it looks at ways to promote health preserve cognition maximize functioning with social support and maintain emotional well being despite inevitable declines and losses Compared to other parts of the world Asia will age more quickly as a result of the rapid socioeconomic developments leading to rising longevity and historically low fertility rates in some countries These demographic forces in vast populations such as China are expected to make Asia the main driver of global aging in the coming decades As a result researchers professionals policymakers as well as the commercial sector in both East and West are increasingly interested in gaining a deeper understanding of aging in Asia Linking Lifetimes Matt Kaplan, Nancy Zimmerman Henkin, Atsuko T. Kusano, 2002 In many developing and post industrialized nations there are powerful demographic and social changes that are endangering the natural ways that old and young have traditionally interacted The current growth in the young and elderly segments of the population of most countries is leading to new challenges in terms of providing health care education financial support and social support systems for the young as well as the elderly An important set of strategies for addressing these trends and the quality of life concerns they generate is the facilitation of intergenerational programs The National Council on the Aging has defined intergenerational programming as activities or programs that increase cooperation interaction or exchange between any two generations In Linking Lifetimes the contributors explore the range of intergenerational programs and policies found across the globe and examine their role in ensuring the transmission of cultural values from generation to generation By illustrating the rich diversity of intergenerational program models the contributors discover how the common goal of promoting intergenerational interaction and understanding unfolds into differential trends social issues and human service systems

NWSA Journal ,2006 Annual Editions Kathleen R. Gilbert,2006-09 The purpose of this book is to bring the reader the latest thoughts and trends in our understanding of the family to identify current concerns as well as problems and potential solutions and to present alternative views of the family process The intent of this anthology is to explore intimate relationships as they are played out within the family and in doing this to reflect the family s evolving function and importance This anthology is organized to address many of the important aspects of family and family relationships The first unit takes an overview perspective and looks at varied perspectives on the family The second unit examines the beginning steps of relationship building as individuals go through the process of exploring and establishing connections In the third unit the means of finding and maintaining a relationship balance for romantic as well as for other intimate relationships are examined Unit 4 is concerned with crises and ways in which these can act as challenges and opportunities for families and their members Finally unit 5 takes an affirming tone as it looks at family strengths and ways of empowering families Pref
