Cross National Policies and Practices on Computers in Education Tjeerd Plomp, R.E. Anderson, Georgia Kontogiannopoulou-Polydorides, 2007-08-19 This book presents some of the results from the second stage of IEA's study of Computers in Education CompEd IEA the International Association for the Evaluation of Educational Achievement conducts international comparative studies focussing on educational achievement practices and policies in various countries and education systems around the world It has a Secretariat located in Amsterdam the Netherlands IEA studies have reported on a wide range of topics each contributing to a deeper understanding of educational processes The CompEd study is a project that sheds light on the way computers have been introduced in education and on how they are being used across the world today The study proceeded in two stages with data collected for stage 1 in 1989 and for stage 2 in 1992 Results from both stages have been published in a variety of publications This book reports about a special part of the study Student achievement and school processes come into being in the context of the structure and the policies of national or regional education systems The variety found in the CompEd results led us to ask how much might be explained by differences in these national or regional contexts That is the reason the CompEd study took the initiative to invite the countries participating in the study as well as some other countries that have had interesting developments in the domain of educational computers to write a chapter describing their policies and practices regarding computers in education ICT and the Emerging Paradigm for Life Long Learning Willem J. valuable resource for understanding and comparing ICT related national policy developments in education We believe that this work offers a unique in depth examination of the trends within major education systems and how they have adapted to and taken advantage of the challenges and opportunities posed by the new information and communication technologies A special feature of this edition is that it allows for interesting comparative analyses of sub groups of countries as many Asian European Union and former eastern European countries as well as the United States and Canada among others are included in the book But it allows also for other than regional comparisons given that a number of newly industrialized countries such as Brazil Chile Malaysia and South Africa are represented in this book together with many OECD countries This book is the result of the effort and hard work of the contributing authors many of whom are the NRCs for IEA SITES in their respective countries Special thanks must go to the Norwegian Royal Ministry of Education and Research and the Netherlands Kennisnet ICT OP School Foundation both of which provided generous support for the preparation and dissemination of the book to the Center for Information Technology in Education CITE of the University of Hong Kong which assisted in the technical preparation of the manuscript and to the IEA Secretariat which facilitated the copyediting of the chapters We want to acknowledge especially the professional contribution of Paula Wagemaker who has copyedited the entire volume This copyediting work is especially critical and challenging as many of the chapters were written by authors for whom English is a foreign language We also want to express our appreciation to David Robitaille chair of the IEA Publications and Editorial Committee and his committee for the critical and constructive review of the manuscript
