Crossing The Moon A Journey Through Infertility:

Crossing the Moon Paulette B. Alden, 1998-03 On her way to achieving her most important goal that of becoming a writer Alden had always considered motherhood but at age 39 she faced the possibility that she had waited too long This intimate memoir chronicles Alden's discoveries and choices as she and her husband decide to embark on a long and difficult course of infertility treatment Reader's Guide to Women's Studies

Eleanor Amico, 1998-03-20 The Reader's Guide to Women's Studies is a searching and analytical description of the most prominent and influential works written in the now universal field of women's studies Some 200 scholars have contributed to the project which adopts a multi-layered approach allowing for comprehensive treatment of its subject matter Entries range from very broad themes such as Health General Works to entries on specific individuals or more focused topics such as Doctors The Practice of Autonomy Carl Schneider, 1998

Exploring what patients do want gives direction to the author's inquiry into what they should want What patients want he believes is properly more complex and ambiguous than being empowered In this book he charts that ambiguity to take the autonomy principle past current pieties into the uncertain realities of the sick room and the hospital ward The Practice of Autonomy is a sympathetic but trenchant study of the animating principle of modern bioethics It speaks with freshness insight and even passion to bioethicists and moral philosophers about their theories to lawyers about their methods to medical sociologists about their subject to policy makers about their ambitions to doctors about their work and to patients about their lives BOOK JACKET Ethics and Economics of Assisted Reproduction Maura A. Ryan, 2003-06-11

For those who undergo it infertility treatment is costly time consuming invasive and emotionally and physically arduous yet technology remains the focus of most public discussion of the topic Drawing on concepts from medical ethics feminist theory and Roman Catholic social teaching Maura A Ryan analyzes the economic ethical theological and political dimensions of assisted reproduction Taking seriously the experience of infertility as a crisis of the self the spirit and the body Ryan argues for the place of reproductive technologies within a temperate affordable sustainable and just health care system She contends that only by ceasing to treat assisted reproduction as a consumer product can meaningful questions about medical appropriateness and social responsibility be raised She places infertility treatments within broader commitments to the common good thereby understanding reproductive rights as an inherently social rather than individual issue Arguing for some limits on access to reproductive technology Ryan considers ways to assess the importance of assisted reproduction against other social and medical prerogatives and where to draw the line in promoting fertility Finally Ryan articulates the need for a compassionate spirituality within faith communities that will nurture those who are infertile Bearing Life
