Deady,2003 Describes the giant airship Hindenburg the events that led up to its explosive crash on a New Jersey airfield in 1937 and the effects of the disaster on airship travel

Hindenburg Disaster (1937) Historic Times,2025-09-11 In 1937 an ocean could be crossed in comfort high above the waves The Hindenburg was a towering airship about 803 feet long roughly 245 meters thirteen stories tall and capable of cruising near 80 mph about 125 km h Inside designer Fritz August Breuhaus created a world where every gram mattered Passengers dined beside wide windows relaxed in bright lounges wrote letters in a quiet salon and visited a sealed smoking room where only electric lighters were allowed Early voyages even featured an aluminum baby grand piano Over 200 000 miles of service and thousands of passengers built a reputation for smooth punctual travel On May 6 1937 as the ship approached Lakehurst routine met its limit Delays from headwinds a charged evening after passing storms a stubborn tail heavy trim rope lines dropped to a wet field and then a first flicker aft In about 34 seconds the great hull collapsed flames racing forward while the ground crew scattered and a stunned radio voice tried to keep up with events Inside this book you will find Balloons to Zeppelins and how rigid airships changed long distance travel Funding propaganda flights and the commercial ambitions behind the program Architecture and atmosphere on Deck A and Deck B including cabins lounges and the sealed smoking room Crew stations navigation and communications and how the ship was handled Routes routines menus and the safety culture aboard The final crossing the approach to Lakehurst and the moments before the first flame Eyewitness testimony from the field and from inside the tail Thirty four seconds of collapse rescue work and the first casualty lists The inquiry s findings and the competing theories tested against film and physics Aftermath memorials and why the era of passenger airships ended

Jersey airfield in 1937 and examines some possible causes for the disaster The Hindenburg in Flames Michael Burgen, 2016-08 Discusses the iconic photograph of the German airship Hindenburg in flames as it attempted to land in New Jersey in May 1937 Fire in the Sky Charles River Editors, 2017-11-09 On May 6 1937 the famous passenger zeppelin burst into flames while attempting to dock in New Jersey and the horrific scenes were captured on film and broadcast over the radio The Hindenburg was carrying nearly 100 people and was still hundreds of feet in the air when it caught fire so the fact that only 35 people died between the fire and the airship plummeting to the ground was much lower than it could have been Nonetheless the fact that the world could see the incredible sight and hear Morrison s notorious broadcast shortly after the disaster immediately heightened its importance and the Hindenburg s name is still instantly recognizable over 75 years later This book chronicles the events that led up to one of history s most famous air disasters Along with pictures of important people places and events you will learn about the Hindenburg like never before in no time at all Publisher
