depicting detail such as the pattern on the reverse side of the wings recognizable when the creature is resting as well as unusual markings and pupae Butterflies in particular can be immensely variable and some have evolved deceptive and defensive physical traits which mean they can become confused with other species Read for example about the sub Saharan common graphium which has the power to mimic a poisonous butterfly from another family or the blood red glider immensely valued among collectors for its rich red colour Some species are well travelled such as the familiar coppers whose light catching wings can be seen in habitats as widespread as Europe central Asia and China Others such as South America s giant swallowtail a rainforest species with wings spanning some 250mm 10in are being placed under increasing pressure by the collapse of their very specialized habitats Moths remain mysterious to many people and are often perceived at best as little worthy of attention or at worst as pests Yet this insect group which contains both day and night fliers displays unique and varied forms of behaviour that makes them endlessly interesting to observe With coverage of both day and night flying species the reader can learn all about the colourful cinnabar moth whose caterpillars turn cannibal during food shortages or the puss and tiger moths whose hindwings may suddenly display flashes of warning colour to deter threats The aptly named hummingbird hawk moth is a nature lover s favourite for its ability to feed hovering at the heads of flowers Then there are the silk moths domesticated by collectors for centuries and the skippers predominantly grassland dwellers who occupy the evolutionary middle ground between butterflies and moths A superb photographic reference section covers the life cycle of all of these creatures with detailed descriptions of internal anatomy and the powerful structure of the wings There are stunning close up images of compound eyes and feeding equipment as well as information on classification and life cycle including hibernation habits plus evolutionary characteristics such as melanism camouflage and mimicry For those who want to get closer there are tips on how to attract moths and butterflies to your own backyard the type of species you are likely to see in nearby habitats and take part in conserving species at local level With a total of 1000 colour photographs artworks and maps and containing meticulously researched and accessible text throughout this is the essential companion for butterfly and moth enthusiasts everywhere Butterflies of the World Valerio Sbordoni, Saverio Forestiero, 1985
