Allen, 1978 Women in ichthyology: an anthology in honour of ET, Ro and Genie E.K. Balon, Michael N. Bruton, David L.G. Noakes, 2012-12-06 This special volume is dedicated to the contributions of women ichthyologists Three colleagues were selected to represent all women ichthyologists Ethelwynn Trewavas ET Rosemary Lowe McConnell Ro and Eugenie Clark Genie All have had distinguished professional careers and have contributed in their own ways to their science The career of each is highlighted by a personal interview with one of the editors of the volume a bibliography of their lifetime publications and a biography of their careers Questions of historical inequities and current controversies in the treatment of women ichthyologists by their peers are raised and addressed by the women themselves The personal and professional influences of these three women and other women ichthyologists are highlighted A survey article by Pat Brown brings a number of women ichthyologists to the attention of a broader audience and points the way for a more comprehensive historical consideration of the accomplishments and contributions of women ichthyologists The volume continues with 16 solicited and contributed papers ET's studies of taxonomy and life history are echoed in papers on the taxonomy and systematics of marine angelfishes and of freshwater bitterlings a review of reproduction in the North Atlantic ichthyofauna and a comparison of reproductive styles and systematics of African minnows Ro's studies on ecology life history and behaviour are paralleled by papers on growth and metabolism in piranha the community structure in tide pool fishes and the social system and reproductive patterns in groupers Genie's pioneering work on sexual roles and sex change and her field studies of the behaviour of marine fishes are reflected in papers on gonadal structure and environmental sex determination in brook lamprey sexual patterns in hawkfish reproduction and systematics in phallostethids gonadal structure and systematics in gobiids reproductive and predator avoidance behaviour in razorfish early ontogeny of an African mouth brooder and alternative life histories in killifish

The butterflyfishes: success on the coral reef Philip J. Motta, 2012-12-06 Butterflyfishes of the family Chaetodontidae are conspicuous members of almost all tropical reefs These colorful fishes have attracted a great deal of attention from both the scientific community and especially the aquarium fish industry At first one is tempted to say that butterflyfishes are abundant worldwide but the evidence does not support this statement The biomass of chaetodontids on reefs may range from 0.02 to 80% and in terms of numbers they comprise only 0.04 to 61 % of the individuals on the reef Yet in spite of these relatively small numbers they have been extensively studied A quick census shows some 170 articles on or about butterfly fishes with 78% of them being published since the 1970's Along with the cichlids and damselfishes they might be one of the most studied and well published family of tropical fishes Why then have chaetodontids attracted so much attention The butterflyfishes are mostly shallow water inhabitants that are approachable and easily recognizable making their study very feasible Their bright coloration has provoked many hypotheses but has posed more questions about coloration than it has provided answers And despite their apparent overall morphological similarity their highly structured and varied social systems have made them an ideal model for such studies The reasons for choosing these organisms are indeed as diverse as the studies themselves A Guide to Angelfishes & Butterflyfishes Gerald R.
