Buying Time:

Buying Time Kaz Makabe, 2017-03-07 WE KNOW from repeated failures to predict and prevent catastrophes ranging from the Great Tohoku Earthquake to the global financial crisis of 2008 that complex adaptive systems such as those found in nature or in economies are actually very hard to predict much less influence Today we face environmental degradation caused in large part by the use of fossil fuels ever declining efficiencies in extracting them a pace of development for renewable energy insufficient for replacement of the fossil fuels we are burning through and population growth that is likely to add two billion people globally by 2045 Despite partial recovery since the financial crisis of 2008 growth remains sluggish and large budget deficits persist across much of the developed world Meanwhile developing states face their own challenges stemming from unbalanced growth Against this backdrop and in light of the urgent need to pay closer heed to our environment the last thing the world needs is an energy crisis triggered not merely by recurrent scares over supply but by more lasting structural changes in our ability to use fossil fuels with reckless abandon Buying Time applies lessons learned the hard way from the global economic crisis of the past decade to offer an overview of the state of the environment and our energy future Grounded in subtle thinking about complex systems including the economy energy and the environment this book underscores the connections linking them all Kaz Makabe is a veteran financial systems expert who lived through the Fukushima Daiichi nuclear disaster He nevertheless concludes that nuclear energy is the bridge than can help us cross over the abyss we face Buying Time and Getting By Mary Grigsby, 2012-02-01 Buying Time and Getting By provides a detailed account of the voluntary simplicity movement which took off in the United States in the late 1980s and early 1990s The concept of voluntary simplicity encompasses both self change aimed at bringing personal practice into alignment with ecological values and cultural change that rejects consumerist values and careerism While simple lives struggle with self change they work toward the broader goals of a sustainable global environment sustainable communities increased equality in access to resources and economies aimed at human quality of life rather than profit Author Mary Grigsby looks inside the movement at the daily lives of participants and includes their own accounts of their efforts She also uses reflexive empirical analysis to explore race class and gender in relation to the movement The influence of the dominant culture and institutionalized power in shaping the movement are balanced with the importance of participants dynamic identity work

Saving Lives, Buying Time Institute of Medicine, Board on Global Health, Committee on the Economics of Antimalarial Drugs, 2004-09-09 For more than 50 years low cost antimalarial drugs silently saved millions of lives and cured billions of debilitating infections Today however these drugs no longer work against the deadliest form of malaria that exists throughout the world Malaria deaths in sub Saharan Africa currently just over one million per year are rising because of increased resistance to the old inexpensive drugs Although effective new drugs called artemisinins are available they are unaffordable for the majority of the affected population even at a cost of one dollar per course Saving Lives Buying Time

Economics of Malaria Drugs in an Age of Resistance examines the history of malaria treatments provides an overview of the current drug crisis and offers recommendations on maximizing access to and effectiveness of antimalarial drugs The book finds that most people in endemic countries will not have access to currently effective combination treatments which should include an artemisinin without financing from the global community Without funding for effective treatment malaria mortality could double over the next 10 to 20 years and transmission will intensify
