

A business meeting in a modern office. A woman stands at a whiteboard, pointing at a circular diagram with '15%' written on it. Several people are seated around a table, looking at the whiteboard and laptops. The table has papers, a coffee cup, and a small potted plant. In the background, a large screen displays a bar chart and a pie chart.

Business Planning For Builders:

Plan to Profit Chuck Miller, 2017-12-20 Small businesses in the construction industry have the second highest failure rate of all industries. A survey of builder and remodeler members of the National Association of Home Builders revealed that fewer than 12 percent had a written business plan, fewer than 15 percent had written operating budgets, less than 18 percent had written mission statements, and almost 70 percent had no formal planning procedures. Your business plan is the most important management tool you have. It defines your strategy, tactics, and specific activities for execution, including dates and deadlines, budgets, and cash flow. It will guide you regarding the types of projects to pursue, how you market your company, the people to hire, and the funding needed to succeed. Planning establishes your short-term, intermediate-term, and long-term goals and outlines how you can achieve those goals by breaking down long-range plans into manageable short-term goals that everyone on your team can identify and support. Your business plan will help you focus strategy, manage milestones, manage metrics, assign and track responsibilities and performance, and manage money using projections for sales, costs, expenses, and cash. Plan To Profit provides a blueprint you can follow to develop a working business plan. It walks you step by step through the process, starting with market research and analysis, followed by developing your product and service, marketing and sales, operations, leadership team, and staffing, and goals and action plans. It guides you in creating your financial forecasts and budgets and your vision, mission, core values, and unique selling proposition. It includes a Microsoft R Excel R workbook which contains financial statement worksheets that you can fill in and use to complete your pro forma financial statements. Author Chuck Miller is Owner of Chuck Miller Consulting, Owner and Chief Education Officer of Chuck Miller Education Services, President and CEO of Chuck Miller Construction Inc, and Managing Member of Chuck Miller Online Enterprises LLC. Chuck has almost 50 years of experience in the construction industry. He understands the special needs of small volume builders and remodelers and works with them to create custom solutions. Chuck has earned nine professional designations from the National Association of Home Builders. He became an instructor for NAHB in 1999 and is a licensed provider of NAHB education programs. Chuck is a Master Instructor for NAHB courses. NAHB named Chuck the 2016 Sales and Marketing IRM Educator of the Year. In addition to teaching builders, remodelers, Realtors, and other building industry professionals, Chuck works one-on-one with builders, remodelers, and construction-related companies to develop a working business plan focused on market research and analysis, product development, and pricing strategy, sales and marketing strategy, operations planning, and financial forecasting and budgeting to achieve and maintain the key financial and operating ratios. It is my hope that successfully completing the steps in this book and using the completed plan as the most important tool in your toolbox will guarantee that you are one of the small businesses in the construction industry that survives and thrives beyond 5 years and increase the five-year survival rate for small businesses in the construction industry.
