C. Nagasubramani, Adult learners have more options for enrolling in postsecondary education than ever before and they are able to use their learning style preference in deciding which program best meets their needs For some of these students those programs are fully online and for others there is minimal use of technology As technology grows and become more integrated into individual lives the unique learning styles and preferences of adults need to learn to be incorporated into instructional design Drawing on a regional sample of US colleges 545 adult learners in a graduate programs were surveyed about how to effectively build community in their online classes Results indicated some agreement with these instructional tools Mature adult learners however were found to have stronger agreement with strategies that included work outside of the formal online class These results suggest perhaps a greater comfort for adults in working in spaces where there is less likelihood of being judged or graded and that they might value relational work with other students in different ways than younger adults Social Media Ethics Made Easy Joseph W. Barnes, 2016-08-23 Social Media Ethics Made Easy takes an in depth look at the risks of social digital and mobile media marketing without structured policies Readers will learn what is at stake from the law to their reputation and what happens if businesses and or individuals do not disclose relationships or comply with FTC Federal Trade Commission regulations Readers will come to understand what they should do why and how they should do it The issues in this book affect every single business from for profits to nonprofits to government and educational institutions It also addresses the impact on every single social digital media participant and why they must learn about these guidelines so they can protect their own personal brand This book is intended for a broad audience including students and professors in both undergrad and graduate schools and practicing business executives The goal is to inform management practice and help current and future business leaders navigate through the ethical laws and compliance issues affecting social digital and mobile media connections iWrite Dana J. Wilber, 2010 The power of Dana Wilber's insight is in its simplicity. Students are texting, networking, and blogging i.e. writing and reading all the time everywhere just maybe in places we aren't necessarily paying attention to. Build on their authentic interest and motivation using the technologies they are already committed to and you've won half the battle. You won't believe how engaged they are; they won't believe they're learning for school. In iWrite Dana shows you how to guide students through the complexity of new literacies including how to discern between media, how to account for audience and voice, how to choose appropriate genre, and how to harness what they already know to be more successful in school. Dana deftly elucidates the lives of Millennials, those students growing up around the turn of the 21st century and the technologies embedded into their everyday reading and writing. She shows us how three accessible tools: wikis, blogs, and digital storytelling can be used to scaffold learning for our students. And she demonstrates how they can help us address 10 key issues in the literacies of today's students: safety, authenticity, practice, relevance, meaning, and identity, interest, and inquiry, cognitive development, community, process, motivation. Let iWrite show you how to capture students' daily literacy practices and develop them for the kind of writing we want them to learn. Publisher's description Meaningful Learning with Technology David H. Jonassen, 2008 This edition describes how various technologies can be used to engage and support different learning activities. By using these processes, teachers also encourage their students to take on more responsibility and become active participants in their own learning. book cover Designing Writing Assignments Traci Gardner, 2008 Effective student writing begins with well-designed classroom assignments. In Designing Writing Assignments, veteran educator Traci Gardner offers practical ways for teachers to develop assignments that will allow students to express their creativity and grow as writers and thinkers while still addressing the many demands of resource-stretched classrooms.

Black Newspapers Index, 2007 Hacking RSS and Atom Leslie Michael Orchard, 2005 Now you can satisfy your appetite for information. This book is not about the minutia of RSS and Atom programming. It's about doing cool stuff with syndication feeds: making the technology give you exactly what you want the way you want. It's about building a feed aggregator and routing feeds to your e-mail or iPod; producing and hosting feeds; filtering, sifting, and blending them; and much more. Tanalizing loose ends beg you to create more hacks; the author hasn't thought up yet. Because if you can't have fun with the technology, what's the point? A sampler platter of things you'll learn to do: Build a simple feed aggregator. Add feeds to your buddy list. Tune into rich media feeds with BitTorrent. Monitor system logs and events with feeds. Scrape feeds from old-fashioned Web sites. Reroute mailing lists into your aggregator. Distill popular links from blogs. Republish feed headlines on your Web site. Extend feeds using calendar events and microformats Mastering Web 2.0 Susan Rice Lincoln, 2009 Mastering Web 2.0 can help both the individual entrepreneur and large organizations make sense of the confusing array of marketing options the Internet offers. Lincoln investigates new tools of the Web world such as blogging and podcasts and explains how to put them to good use Business India, 2004
