Father Teaches Craft Sanjay Desai, AI, 2025-02-27 Father Teaches Craft explores the fading tradition of fathers passing down artisanal skills to their sons a cornerstone of family and community life for centuries It delves into how industrialization and the changing labor market disrupted this intergenerational learning impacting both economic stability and the very definition of masculinity The book highlights how this skill transmission went beyond mere job training it solidified family bonds and ensured the continuation of valuable crafts The book examines the shift from handcrafts to mass production revealing how the rise of factories rendered many inherited skills obsolete leading to shifts in family dynamics and male identity For instance skills once vital for survival and status such as blacksmithing or carpentry diminished in value as machines took over This societal change is not just a historical account but also an exploration of how the erosion of tangible skills can lead to a sense of disconnection Spanning from pre industrial societies to modern times the book uses historical documents oral histories and sociological studies to paint a detailed picture of this transformation It begins by establishing the historical context then examines the impact of industrialization and concludes by discussing the modern

Congress,1977 Not Your Father's Union Movement Jo-Ann Mort,1998 A seismic shift occurred inside the US trade union movement in October 1994 when the New Voice campaign swept a new leadership into the AFL CIO the federation of American unions Led by John Sweeney the campaign forced the first democratic election for top officers in the history of the organisation The new team including Sweeney as President Rich Trumka as Secretary Treasurer and Linda Chavaz Thompson as Executive Vice President came to power promising changes from within. With the new leadership came a virtually complete recasting of the federation designed to meet the needs of working families in a changing economy and rebuild the most critical link in fighting for a more progressive and egalitarian America. The US union movement is making news again from political action to organising from challenging corporate power to building links with workers in an international arena. Yet even with increased press attention and more public awareness of today's unions, the inside story of the new AFL CIO hasn't been told before. In these pages the new programme of the federation is presented for the first time by those directly involved with its implementation. Not Your Father's Union Movement is an indispensable guide for anyone who is a union member or who cares about social change. The book also provides a useful introduction to today's unions for students, teachers and others. Among the topics discussed are programmes around organising political action, women, immigrant workers, global strategy and international worker solidarity and changing the union's image. Case studies of how labour won the strike against UPS and the legislative fights to increase the minimum wage and defeat Fast Track Trade Authority are also included. Contributors: Jo Ann Mort, Harold Meyerson, Richard Bensinger, Karen Nussbaum, Steve Rosenthal, Kelly Candaele, Jerry Hudson, Amy Dean, Hector Figueroa, Barbara Shaillor, Guy Molyneux, David Kusnet, Mark Baldwin, David Glenn, Matt Witt, Rand Wilson, Juan Gonzalez and Noel Beasley.

Mavis Hetherington, University of Virginia. This useful handbook brings together many of the most important new findings and provocative ideas about America's diverse and changing families. An excellent resource. Stephanie Coontz, author of The Way We Really Are: Coming to Terms with America's Changing Families. What has happened to marriage and families? What is the current state of families? Where are families headed? Where is family scholarship headed? As families face challenges today brought on by events that have changed their perception of the world, there is a need for a clear assessment of what has happened to families in the past and an examination of some data-based theories about what is likely to happen in the future. The Handbook of Contemporary Families explores how families have changed in the last 30 years and speculates about future trends. Editors Marilyn Coleman and Lawrence H. Ganong, along with a multidisciplinary group of contributors, critique the approaches used to study relationships and families while suggesting modern approaches for the new millennium. The Handbook looks at how changes within the contemporary family have been reflected in family
