The management of organisations continues to evolve as new priorities emerge and new approaches are developed. Thus, it is clear that research into business and management will also continue to evolve. This will be in terms of both what is researched and in terms of the techniques and methods used to conduct research. Such development will continue into the future, and this book highlights evolving areas. It also suggests new topics which are emerging and new techniques to conduct such research topics and techniques that will be of benefit to researchers. The unique focus on the future of research methods in management, the emergence of topics in contemporary management and sustainability research and practices such as sustainability and circular economy will set this volume apart. With coverage of new and emerging subjects in management studies such as sustainability, zero carbon, green market, and circular economy and the international collaboration with contributors from all around the globe, this major interdisciplinary reference volume will be of interest and great value to researchers, academics, and advanced students in the fields of business and management research and appropriate methodologies.

Micro-Apartments as an Emerging Real Estate Market Florentin Rack, 2017-02-27 Master's Thesis from the year 2016 in the subject Economics Other grade 2.2 EBS European Business School gGmbH EBS Business School Real Estate Management Institute language English abstract The aim of this thesis is to have a look at micro apartments as an emerging housing market in Europe and find out if the concept is sustainable. The research is focused mainly on Germany and the United Kingdom as they are the two most important real estate markets in Europe. Chapter Two will give an overview of what micro apartments are, which demographic groups they target, and how they ought to be designed. Chapter Three explains some of the trends that have led to the emergence of micro units, followed by an overview of advantages and disadvantages. In Chapter Four, Chapter Five discusses two examples for recent micro unit developments in London and Berlin. Finally, Chapter Six covers a survey that was conducted in order to find out if the small space big city trade off is finding favour with Europeans. The chapter begins with an overview of the questionnaire and the demographic composition of the respondents, followed by findings concerning the interest in and expectations for micro apartments and what amenities and features these flats should include. Finally, differences between the various demographic groups are identified, and the European survey results are compared to previous findings from the United States. Contemporary Business Louis E.

Human Diversity in Education Kenneth Cushner, Averil McClelland, Hyla Cushner, Philip L. Safford, 2021-03

It is difficult to fathom the myriad changes that have occurred and that influence the content of this book in just three years since the previous edition. As this book goes to press we have witnessed many nations in Europe as well as the United States that have made dramatic political shifts from open and liberal leanings to more populist, nationalistic and conservative ideologies. These shifts have been accompanied by an increase in xenophobia and stricter actions to reduce immigration, often accompanied by a rise in anti-immigrant, anti-Semitic and Islamophobic sentiment. The conflicts and struggles in Afghanistan, Iraq and Syria continue as tensions between the United States and Russia fester. A questioning of Truth with an onslaught of fake news has emerged, having a major influence on the 2016 U.S. presidential election. And we expect numerous changes to occur under the new U.S. Secretary of Education Betsy DeVos. And these challenges are in the political arena alone. Across the planet, people continue to feel the stresses of the seemingly endless changes and challenges they confront on many fronts. Climate change continues to advance, resulting in new and unpredictable weather patterns, despite a vocal minority that appears to deny its existence. Although making gains, people continue to wrestle with questions surrounding same sex marriage and gay rights, the question of health care, the accelerated identification of children with autism and other disabilities as well as our aging population, span cultural differences and cut across geographic, political and social boundaries, continuing to impact us all at the local, national and global levels. Some people are eager to embrace innovation and change while others struggle through a variety of political and social means to retain older and more traditional ways of doing things. Such challenges continue to enter and impact our increasingly culturally diverse classrooms and communities. To effectively address and solve the multitude of issues we face, it is incumbent upon teachers to provide young people with a foundation that will assist them to better understand the complex nature of the world in which they will live while developing the skills that will enable them to be proactive problem solvers in an interdependent global society. This requires people who have the knowledge, skills and motivations to reach beyond their own cultural boundaries and a willingness and ability to collaborate with others. If people are not willing and able to do so, these and other future problems simply will not be solved. Developing intercultural understanding and competence must be actively addressed throughout the school curriculum. This tenth edition of Human Diversity in Education: An Intercultural Approach continues to focus on the preparation of teachers and other human service providers who can interact effectively with the wide diversity of people they are certain to encounter and who are able to transmit this knowledge and skill to the individuals in their charge.
