Fix It Light: The Beginner's Guide to Easy, Renter-Safe Home Repairs Sarah Whitfield, 2025-11-04 Home improvement doesn't have to mean dust drills or damage deposits. Fix It Light is the ultimate guide to quick satisfying home fixes written especially for renters, first-time DIYers, and anyone who wants their space to feel polished and personal without risking their security deposit. This is weekend DIY made joyful. In just a few hours and with the most basic tools, you'll learn how to solve the small annoyances that drive you crazy: squeaky doors, loose shelves, peeling caulk, crooked frames, and give your space a professional finish without the stress. The Geek's Guide to the Writing Life Stephanie Vanderslice, 2017-12-14 The desire to create, to write, to fulfill our artistic dreams is a powerful human need. Yet the number of people who make a living solely by their pen is actually quite small. What does that mean for the rest of us, the self-described writing geeks who are passionate about writing and who still want to sustain successful literary lives? What does it really mean to find time to build a rewarding writing life while pursuing a career, being a partner, or raising a family in the distracted, time-deprived 21st century? In The Geek's Guide to the Writing Life, based on her Huffington Post blog of the same name, Stephanie Vanderslice shares the secrets and tools to developing a successful, rewarding writing practice in a way that inspires the reader to persevere through the inevitable lows and even the highs of a literary life so that anyone can pursue the path to realizing their artistic dreams. Popularizing Scholarly Research Patricia Leavy, 2021-08-17 Popularizing Scholarly Research: The Academic Landscape, Representation, and Professional Identity in the 21st Century provides an introduction to the world of research in the 21st century. This book discusses how research may be represented and issues related to professional identity in this shifting arena. Patricia Leavy's book explains how research has turned from a disciplinary to transdisciplinary, the new structures our research may take, as well as what our professional lives may look like. Contributors discuss transdisciplinary research, public intellectuals, audience, and voice, creative nonfiction writing, collaboratively, visual images, writing for broad audiences, academic blogs, publicity, funding, and public policy. Blogger or Journalist? Evaluating What Is the Press in the Digital Age Tracy Brown, 2012-12-15 From the Introduction: The days of relying on the newspaper delivery boy to deliver information to households are long over. The Internet and mobile phone technologies have changed how information is gathered and delivered in ways that can't be overstated. They have allowed people worldwide to gather, share, and access news as it's happening. The Internet and sites such as Facebook and YouTube have made it possible for anyone to reach a broad global audience and for anyone with a computer to be a news provider. There is an enormous amount of content available online on just about any topic. Viewers and readers must weed through this information to find sources that they trust and that they can rely on in the same way that people read their daily paper or watch their favorite television news broadcast. The difference is the people who write for newspapers or television news are journalists; people whose job it is to research and deliver news to the public. When you go online, you find content from lots of different people, many of whom are not actual journalists but interested citizens who want to share information with the public much like journalists do These non journalists include writers of blogs and producers of independent news stories people who are not working for official media outlets like established news channels or publications Here we will look at the differences between journalists and this new breed of news providers We will discuss what professional standards journalists must follow that bloggers are not bound to as well as what laws protect journalists but do not offer the same protection for non journalists Also discussed will be the roles different types of news providers serve in society and how our definition of journalism is changing The purpose is to help consumers of online news better understand where the news they read is coming from what news they can trust how to tell the difference between fact and opinion and how to put together everything they read to form their own ideas about current events and then perhaps even to share their ideas in their own online publications or blogs
