Author Liese Zahabi addresses three key questions: How do users perceive search engines and what is their understanding of how they work? What are the various user interface designs, contemporary and historical, that have created access points to search and how do these interfaces affect each other and a user's search process? What do these designs and products say about our priorities and our relationships with information and other people? This book weaves archival and contemporary examples of interface designs together with the results of user research conducted by the author. These user studies focus on how people utilize various platforms, apps and interfaces in their quest for information, answers and meaning. Current research from the fields of user experience design, interaction design and information design is integrated throughout to expand on these ideas and provide larger takeaways. This book is crucial reading for advanced students, scholars and professionals in the fields of design, specifically user experience and interaction design, media and cultural studies.
