Invisibility by Design

Gabriella Lukács,2020-01-03 In the wake of labor market deregulation during the 2000s online content sharing and social networking platforms were promoted in Japan as new sites of work that were accessible to anyone. Enticed by the chance to build personally fulfilling careers, many young women entered Japan's digital economy by performing unpaid labor as photographers, net idols, bloggers, online traders, and cell phone novelists. While some women leveraged digital technology to create successful careers, most did not. In Invisibility by Design, Gabriella Luk cs traces how these women's unpaid labor became the engine of Japan's digital economy. Drawing on interviews with young women who strove to sculpt careers in the digital economy, Luk cs shows how platform owners tapped unpaid labor to create innovative profit generating practices without employing workers, thereby rendering women's labor invisible. By drawing out the ways in which labor precarity generates a demand for feminized affective labor, Luk cs underscores the fallacy of the digital economy as a more democratic, egalitarian, and inclusive mode of production.

 universities consistently have risen twice or even three times as fast as comparable increases in the Consumer Price Index in recent years Since 2000 these costs have even grown 60 percent faster than health care costs The results have been rapidly rising student debt now 1 4 trillion nationally rising delinquencies in debt repayment and a dysfunctional stratification of public college student bodies on the basis of family incomes This is a broken unsustainable model for the majority of public colleges Why has this occurred The multiple causes include declining state support the avaricious behavior of individual institutions their reluctance to adopt productivity increasing innovations their cost increasing competition for higher U S News ratings and misdirected federal student financial aid policies The key actors are the 50 000 members of the governing boards of public colleges who too often forget that their primary responsibility is to citizens taxpayers and the 15 million students Instead board members are co opted by clever administrators into approving tuition and fee increases well beyond
