Disability Liat Ben-Moshe, 2020-05-19 This vital addition to carceral prison and disability studies draws important new links between deinstitutionalization and decarceration Prison abolition and decarceration are increasingly debated but it is often without taking into account the largest exodus of people from carceral facilities in the twentieth century the closure of disability institutions and psychiatric hospitals Decarcerating Disability provides a much needed corrective combining a genealogy of deinstitutionalization with critiques of the current prison system Liat Ben Moshe provides groundbreaking case studies that show how abolition is not an unattainable goal but rather a reality and how it plays out in different arenas of incarceration antipsychiatry the field of intellectual disabilities and the fight against the prison industrial complex Ben Moshe discusses a range of topics including why deinstitutionalization is often wrongly blamed for the rise in incarceration who resists decarceration and deinstitutionalization and the coalitions opposing such resistance and how understanding deinstitutionalization as a form of residential integration makes visible intersections with racial desegregation By connecting deinstitutionalization with prison abolition Decarcerating Disability also illuminates some of the limitations of disability rights
