Characterization of Solutes in Nonaqueous Solvents Mamantov, 2012-12-06 This book consists of contributions by participants in the Symposium Spectroscopic and Electrochemical Characterization of Solute Species in Non Aqueous Solvents which took place at the American Chemical Society Meeting Division of Analytical Chemistry August 31 and September 1 1976 San Francisco California The manuscripts were submitted to the editor during the first half of 1977 and in most cases represent reviews of selected research topics in the broad area of characterization of solute species in non aqueous solvents In organizing this Symposium I attempted to bring together a significantly large group of research workers involved in spectroscopic and electrochemical studies in the three large classes of non aqueous solvents organic solvents covalent inorganic solvents and molten salts The experimental approaches and problems such as avoidance of traces of moisture and oxygen are frequently similar for all types of non aqueous solvents It is hoped that this volume will be useful to all concerned with chemistry in non aqueous solvents Gleb I Mamantov Contents 1 IDENTIFICATION AND SYSTEMIZATION OF SOLVENT PROPERTIES INVOLVED IN THE LIGAND SUBSTITUTION KINETICS OF LABILE COMPLEXES OF NICKEL II J F Coetzee D Frollini C G Karakatsanis E J Characterization of Solutes in Nonaqueous Solvents, 1978-03-01

Nakajima, B. Žemva, A. Tressaud, 2000-05-12 This book summarizes recent progresses in inorganic fluorine chemistry Highlights include new aspects of inorganic fluorine chemistry such as new synthetic methods structures of new fluorides and oxide fluorides their physical and chemical properties fluoride catalysts surface modifications of inorganic materials by fluorination process new energy conversion materials and industrial applications Fluorine has quite unique properties highest electronegativity very small polarizability In fact fluorine is so reactive that it forms fluorides with all elements except with the lightest noble gases helium neon and argon Originally due to its high reactivity fluoride chemistry faced many technical difficulties and remained undeveloped for many years Now however a large number of fluorine containing materials are currently produced for practical uses on an industrial scale and their applications are rapidly extending to many fields Syntheses and structure analyses of thermodynamically unstable high oxidation state fluorides have greatly contributed to inorganic chemistry in this decade Fluoride catalysts and surface modifications using fluorine are developing a new field of fluorine chemistry and will enable new syntheses of various compounds The research on inorganic fluorides is now contributing to many chemical energy conversion processes such as lithium batteries Furthermore new theoretical approaches to determining the electronic structures of fluorine compounds are also progressing On the industrial front the use of inorganic fluorine compounds is constantly increasing for example in semiconductor industry Advanced Inorganic Fluorides Synthesis Characterization and

Applications focuses on these new features in inorganic fluorine chemistry and its industrial applications The authors are outstanding experts in their fields and the contents of the book should prove to be of valuable assistance to all chemists graduates students and researchers in the field of fluorine chemistry □□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□ (Japan),1900
