Charles Lever New Evaluations:

Charles Lever Tony Bareham, 1991-01-01 These essays comprise the first extensive reappraisal of Charles Lever for over 50 years Once regarded as the equal of Dickens Trollope and Thackeray Lever's public turned their backs on him when he changed style and genre after making his name with comic military tales He never captured his early popularity but his later novels in fact manifest a much more serious and crafted approach to fiction and richly deserve revival Lever's own turbulent and often unhappy life of social and cultural exile in Europe provides the hidden theme of many of his better novels Continental and Irish settings and preoccupations are juxtaposed making his contribution to the Anglo Irish novel an unusual and challenging one Lever is a shrewd observer of character particularly of female character few of his better remembered contemporaries write with more insight about women old young rich poor loving hating dominating subjected His eye for place is acute Scott is his model but Lever's ability to correlate character with environment is finely developed His political observations are shrewd and balanced

Charles Lever Stephen Haddelsey, 2000 At the peak of his career Charles Lever 1806 1872 was one of the most successful novelists in the English language and the only mid nineteenth century Irish novelist to vie with Charles Dickens in terms of popularity and income In his incisive critical study S P Haddelsey charts the rise and fall of this gifted and much maligned commentator on Irish affairs and calls for a reappraisal of his position in the canon of Irish literature

Denkbilder-- Hermann Rasche, Christiane Schönfeld, 2004

Cosmopolitan Italy in the Age of Nations Edoardo Tortarolo, 2022-12-30 Modern Italian historiography has undergone a substantial revision in the last quarter of a century From an almost exclusive focus on the process of nation building the attention of historians has shifted The most innovative research is now devoted to assessing to what extent the cosmopolitan attitude that was evident in the late eighteenth century morphed but did not disappear in the ensuing two centuries The essays in this volume make the case that the age of nations had a profound impact on Italian history and contributed to the creation of an Italian identity within the framework of well functioning imperial and global networks They also acknowledge that the process of national individualization carried with it a variety of aspects that reconnected Italian history to the foreign cultures that were undergoing constant self fashioning

Cosmopolitan Italy in the Age of Nations Transnational Visions from the Eighteenth to the Twentieth Century will be of interest to scholars throughout the world and intellectual and transnational historians

Charles Lever Tony Bareham, 1991 These essays comprise the first extensive re appraisal of Charles Lever for over fifty years Once regarded as the equal of Dickens Thackeray and Trollope Lever's public turned their backs upon him when he changed style and genre after making his name with comic military tales He never recaptured his early popularity but his later novels in fact manifest a much more serious and crafted approach to fiction and richly deserve revival Lever's own turbulent and often unhappy life of social and cultural exile in Europe provides the hidden theme of many of his better novels Continental and Irish settings and preoccupations are juxtaposed making his contribution to the Anglo Irish novel per se an unusual and challenging one Lever is a shrewd observer of character particularly of female character few of his better remembered contemporaries write with more insight about women old young rich poor loving hating dominating subjected His eye for place is acute Scott is his model but Lever's ability to correlate character with environment is finely developed His political observations always well integrated into the fabric of his plot are shrewd and balanced The current neglect of this accomplished and cosmopolitan Irishman is entirely unwarranted Though he wrote too much too hastily and under pressures sometimes too much dominated by the intransigent necessities of serial publication the contributors to this volume seek to show that Lever deserves a reappraisal and a revival of attention to his extensive and often original output Thus hopefully the revival of interest in Charles Lever commencing with this volume should attract readers of the novel well beyond the specialist range of Anglo Irish scholars      Industry, Trade and People in Ireland, 1650-1950 W. H. Crawford, 2005 Bill Crawford had played a key role in the development of Irish economic social and regional history for over forty years The essays in this book are testimony to his many spheres of influence as teacher archivist curator researcher and writer and focus on the themes in which Bill himself has been most interested the relations between town and countryside the linen industry and trade land and population His innovative use of historical sources extensive scholarship many publications and the enthusiasm for research which he imparts to so many people are acknowledged in this wide ranging volume      Happiness in Nineteenth-century Ireland Mary Hatfield, 2021 The history of emotions has become a central preoccupation across the humanities and this volume considers the rich possibility of writing a history of happiness in Ireland Featuring new work from established and emerging scholars this collection considers how the idea of happiness shaped cultural literary and individual aspirations across nineteenth century Ireland      New Voices in Irish Criticism 4 Fionnuala Dillane, Ronan Kelly, 2003 Now in its fourth year the New Voices series has established itself as the principal forum for presenting the best work by emerging scholars of Irish literature and culture in Ireland today New voices in Irish criticism 4 broadens the range of its predecessors diverse essays on art history linguistics refugee narratives and the media mingle with literary studies of new and established figures including Medbh McGuckian Oscar Wilde Brian Friel John Mitchel Paul Durcan and Eva Gore Booth Innovative comparisons are made in the conjunction of Anton Chekhov Fernando Pessoa Katherine Mansfield Muriel Rukeyser and Edmund Spenser with Irish writers This diversity allows for an unexpected and illuminating degree of cross over as all contributors are writing out of the moment expressing contemporary concerns through historically informed critical thought      Irish Novelists and the Victorian Age James H. Murphy, 2011-01-13 This is the first comprehensive study of the neglected Irish writers of the Victorian age whose work was highly popular with the British reading audience and therefore disparaged and largely forgotten from the era of W B Yeats and the Irish Literary Revival with its culturally nationalist agenda onwards It is based on a reading of around 370 novels by 150 authors including William Carleton the peasant novelist who wielded much influence and Charles Lever whose serious work was destroyed by the slur of rollicking as well as Joseph Sheridan LeFanu George Moore Emily Lawless Somerville and Ross Bram Stoker and three of the leading authors from the new woman movement Sarah Grand Iota and George Egerton James H Murphy examines their writing in a variety of contexts the political economic and cultural developments of the time the vicissitudes of the reading audience the realities of a publishing industry that was for the most part London based the often difficult circumstances of the lives of the novelists and the ever changing genre of the novel itself to which Irish authors often made a contribution Politics history religion gender and particularly land over which nineteenth century Ireland was deeply divided featured as key themes for fiction Finally the book engages with the critical debate of recent times concerning the supposed failure of realism in the nineteenth century Irish novel looking for deeper causes than have hitherto been offered and discovering occasions on which realism turned out to be possible A Guide to Irish Fiction, 1650-1900 Rolf Loeber, Magda Stouthamer-Loeber, Anne Mullin Burnham, 2006 The Guide to Irish Fiction has led to the identification of hundreds of unknown or forgotten Irish authors and their works and provides thousands of summaries of novels and anthologies Carefully documented the book presents details of the publication of Irish fiction in Ireland England North America Australia as well as several other European countries Written for literary scholars and students and for anyone interested in Ireland and its literature this book also constitutes an essential tool for historians librarians collectors of Irish books and antiquarian booksellers

The Irish Novel in the Nineteenth Century Jacqueline Belanger, 2005 Featuring twelve original essays by leading scholars in the fields of Irish literary and cultural studies this book investigates how the 19th century Irish novel was defined and understood in its own contemporary moment and reconsiders current critical discourse surrounding 19th century Irish fiction

Phiz Valerie Browne Lester, 2004 Phiz is the first biography of Charles Dickens most famous illustrator filled with irresistible drawings it also provides a vivid portrait of the Victorian age from publisher description

The Bulletin, 1990 New Hibernia Review, 2000 Ireland James H. Murphy, 2003 This work provides a concise yet comprehensive overview of the social and cultural patterns of the century It traces the ways in which traditional forms of peasant life were modified not only by economic change but also by the administration reforms of government and the expansion of access to education Oxford Dictionary of National Biography: Leared-Lister Henry Colin Gray Matthew, Brian Harrison, 2004 55 000 biographies of people who shaped the history of the British Isles and beyond from the earliest times to the year 2002

Strangers To That Land Andrew Hadfield, John Mcveagh, 1994-10-25 Strangers to that Land is a critical anthology of English Scottish and Welsh colonists and travelers accounts of Ireland and the Irish from the sixteenth to the nineteenth centuries from the Reformation to the Famine The anthology consists exclusively of eyewitness descriptions of Ireland given by writers using English who had never been to Ireland before and were seeing the country for the first time Each extract where necessary is set in context and briefly explained The result is a vivid continuous record of Ireland as defined and judged by the British over a period of four centuries Irish University Review, 1993 Victoria's

Ireland? Peter Gray, 2004 This collection of interdisciplinary essays focuses on the articulation and interplay of Irish and British identities during the Victorian period in Ireland Great Britain and beyond To some commentators inherently antagonistic to others potentially complementary Irishness and Britishness were described and contested with increasing intensity throughout the long period of Victoria s reign These essays utilize a range of themes to throw light on the complexities of that relationship including the Victorian monarchy s attitude towards Ireland and Irish reactions to it debates about Irish difference and integration and varied constructions of Ireland s place in the imperial world order It gives particular attention to the Famine as a rupturing force in Victorian Irish British relations and to attempts made to contain this cleavage in literature economic theory and policy The Writer's Directory, 1998-2000 Miranda H. Ferrara, 1995 Information on more than 17 500 living authors from English speaking countries
