Chateaubriand Today:

The Taming of Romanticism Virgil Nemoianu, 1984 Looking at a broad spectrum of writers English French German Italian Russian and other East Europeans Virgil Nemoianu offers here a coherent characterization of the period 1815 1848 This he calls the era of the domestication of romanticism The explosive visionary core of romanticism is seen to give way after the defeat of Napoleon to an expanded and softer version reflecting middle class values This later form of romanticism is characterized by moralizing efforts to reform society a sentimental yearning for the tranquility of home and hearth and persistent faith in the individual alongside a new skepticism shattered ideals and consequent irony Expanding the application of the term Biedermeier which has been useful in describing this period in German literature Nemoianu provides a new framework for understanding these years in a wider European context

Christian Encounters with the Other John C. Hawley, 1998-02 Why does Christianity feel the need to impose its customs and beliefs on the rest of the world Using a cultural studies approach CHRISTIAN ENCOUNTERS WITH THE OTHER covers the Renaissance through to the present It spans much of the globe discussing a range of authors and their works and the social forces that help shape missionary movements

Impossible Individuality Gerald N. Izenberg, 1992-06-03 Studying major writers and philosophers Schlegel and Schleiermacher in Germany Wordsworth in England and Chateaubriand in France Gerald Izenberg shows how a combination of political social and psychological developments resulted in the modern concept of selfhood More than a study of one national culture influencing another this work goes to the heart of kindred intellectual processes in three European countries Izenberg makes two persuasive and related arguments The first is that the Romantics developed a new idea of the self as characterized by fundamentally opposing impulses a drive to assert the authority of the self and expand that authority to absorb the universe and the contradictory impulse to surrender to a greater idealized entity as the condition of the self's infinity The second argument seeks to explain these paradoxes historically showing how romantic individuality emerged as a compromise Izenberg demonstrates how the Romantics retreated in part from a preliminary radically activist ideal of autonomy they had worked out under the impact of the French Revolution They had begun by seeing the individual self as the sole source of meaning and authority but the convergence of crises in their personal lives with the crises of the revolution revealed this ideal as dangerously aggressive and self aggrandizing In reaction the Romantics shifted their absolute claims for the self to the realm of creativity and imagination and made such claims less dangerous by attributing totality to nature art lover or state which in return gave that totality back to the self
