Character Education Social Studies:

Why Should Character Education be Implemented in Social Studies Classrooms? Marguerite Carlson, 1999 This study sought answers to the question Why should character education be implemented in social studies classrooms Three teachers and nine high school students in the north Seattle area were interviewed to share their experiences with character education in their classrooms The characteristics and patterns were coded qualitatively analyzed and separated into three main categories Teachers stated character education should be implemented in classes implicitly Students had capabilities for moral decision making and learning was enhanced by the use of character education Violence in schools and religion are problem areas Therefore teachers are advised to imply issues of character development in their curriculum rather than making character education official policy

A Quasi-Experimental Control Group Design Study to Determine the Effect of Integrating Character Education Into a High School Social Studies Curriculum Through Storytelling

Russell Long, 2014 The purpose of this study was to offer evidence for the development of student character through the integration of historical storytelling into a social studies classroom A quasi experimental study was conducted to determine the effect of character education through historical storytelling integrated into a United States history curriculum on student commitment to ethical goodness The study took place in a public high school in Savannah Georgia Student commitment to ethical goodness was measured by a paired samples t test on pretests and post tests taken by students The overall study demonstrated that participants did not exhibit a statistically significant change in commitment to ethical goodness as a result of these treatments There was no statistically significant change in either the experimental or the control groups

Character Education in America's Blue Ribbon Schools Madonna Murphy, 2002-07-09 Character Education in America's Blue Ribbon Schools is based upon descriptive documentary and qualitative research conducted on the award winning school applications in the United States Department of Education's Elementary School Recognition Program i.e. the Blue Ribbon Schools The purpose of the program is to focus national attention on schools that are doing an exceptional job with all of their students Areas studied are developing a solid foundation of basic skills and knowledge of subject matter and fostering the development of character values and ethical judgment The first edition of this book reported on the first decade of this program from 1985 to 1994 The second edition adds the schools that have won the award from 1996-2001 Included are the Blue Ribbon schools that applied for Special Honors in Character Education and five that actually won that recognition in 1998-1999 This edition finds character education much stronger in American schools in recent years and is full of many promising practices It is a practical book that will guide school administrators teachers parents board members and concerned citizens interested in starting or strengthening the character education focus of their school
