Characterizing Human Psychological Adaptations:

Characterizing Human Psychological Adaptations Gregory R. Bock, Gail Cardew, 2008-04-30 This book contains chapters by some of the leading figures in the field of evolutionary psychology. The latest data are presented on evolutionary theories in perception, information, various aspects of social behaviour, language, learning and aggression. A common theme running through the printed discussions in this book is the important problem of how we can develop and test rigorous characterizations of evolved mental adaptations.

Characterizing Human Psychological Adaptations Martin Daly, 1997-11-25 This work reveals that behind the crazy global quilt of customs and rituals lie recurring patterns in the structure of the family, friends, politics, courtship and morality.

Evolution of Culture Robin Dunbar, 2019-07-29 This book explores the ways in which contemporary evolutionary thinking might inform the study of the peculiarly human phenomenon of symbolic culture, including language, ritual, religion, religion and art. It draws together contributions from biologists, linguists, anthropologists and archaeologists in order to establish common ground where collaboration and interaction will be especially productive and challenging in the study of those fundamental aspects of our biology that makes us human.

Multidisciplinary: An evolutionary approach to culture.

Evolutionary Perspectives on Human Reproductive Behavior Dori LeCroy, Peter Moller, 2000 A central aspect of human adaptation: reproductive behaviour is studied through the multiple lenses of philosophy, biology, psychology and anthropology, all united by an evolutionary perspective. Although reproduction is an intrinsic mechanism of evolution, this colloquium shows that reproductive behaviours yield new significance for evolution theory when re-examined in a multidisciplinary setting. This volume focuses on explication of the adaptive, evolved nature of our own reproduction with topics such as how mate choice shaped human nature, symmetry in mate selection, the evolution of moral dispositions and the sexist order of the bonobos. This look at reproduction as a mechanism of human evolution reveals underlying physiologic mechanisms as well as comparative and interesting cross-cultural aspects that emerge from social sciences and anthropology.

The Psychologist, 1998 Decision-making, Cultural Transmission and Adaptation in Economic Anthropology Joseph Henrich,

Evolutionary Psychology and Motivation Jeffrey A. French, Alan C. Kamil, Daniel W. Leger, Martin Daly, 2001 Recent media coverage of the controversial theory of sexual violence as a product of biological evolution has once again brought the question of the origins of human motivation into the public eye. In this volume, leading scholars in behavioral studies examine the value of evolutionary perspectives in understanding psychological motivations. Beginning with the fundamental fact that humans are part of the biological world, evolutionary psychologists contend that human motivations and mental processes should be understood as by-products of natural selection. By viewing human psychology both normal and abnormal within this framework, evolutionary psychologists intend to bridge the disciplinary divide between traditional psychology and fields such as biology.

RATIONALITY, CULTURAL TRANSMISSION AND ADAPTATION JOSEPH HENRICH, Journal of Anthropological Research, 1973 The

Nature of Intelligence Novartis Foundation, 2000 Evolutionary psychology and behavioural genetics are two successful and important fields in the study of human behaviour but practitioners in these subjects have different conceptions of the nature of human intelligence Evolutionary psychologists dispute the existence of general intelligence and emphasise the differences among species They argue that natural and sexual selection would be expected to produce intelligences that are specialised for particular domains as encountered by particular species Behavioural geneticists consider general intelligence to be the most fundamental aspect of intelligence and concentrate on the differences between individuals of the same species This exciting book features papers and discussion contributions from leading behavioural geneticists evolutionary psychologists and experts on intelligence that explore the differences and the tensions between these two approaches The nature of g or general intelligence is discussed in detail as is the issue of the heritability of intelligence The alternative approaches that emphasise domain specific intelligences are explored alongside wide ranging discussions on a broad range of issues such as the biological basis for intelligence animal models and changes in IQ scores over time Stevens' Handbook of Experimental Psychology, Learning, Motivation, and Emotion Randy Gallistel, 2002-02-28 Now available in paperback This revised and updated edition of the definitive resource for experimental psychology offers comprehensive coverage of the latest findings in the field as well as the most recent contributions in methodology and the explosion of research in neuroscience Volume Three Learning Motivation and Emotion focuses on the role of learning in the operation of motivational systems in human cognitive development The Innate Mind Peter Carruthers, Stephen Laurence, Stephen P. Stich, 2005 This is the third volume of a three volume set on The Innate Mind The extent to which cognitive structures processes and contents are innate is one of the central questions concerning the nature of the mind with important implications for debates throughout the human sciences By bringing together the top nativist scholars in philosophy psychology and allied disciplines these volumes provide a comprehensive assessment of nativist thought and a definitive reference point for future nativist inquiry The Innate Mind Volume 3 Foundations and the Future concerns a variety of foundational issues as well as questions about the direction of future nativist research It addresses such questions as What is innateness Is it a confused notion What is at stake in debates between nativists and empiricists What is the relationship between genes and innateness How do innate structures and learned information interact to produce adult forms of cognition e g about number and how does such learning take place What innate abilities underlie the creative aspect of language use and of creative cognition generally What are the innate foundations of human motivation and of human moral cognition In the course of their discussions many of the contributors pose the question whether explicitly or implicitly Where next for nativist research Together these three volumes provide the most intensive and richly cross disciplinary investigation of nativism ever undertaken They point the way toward a synthesis of nativist work that promises to provide a powerful picture of our minds and their place in the natural order The Fateful Hoaxing Of Margaret Mead Derek Freeman, 1999 What if having neglected the problem she had been sent to investigate she relied at the last moment on the tales of two traveling companions who jokingly misled her about the sexual behavior of Samoan girls What if her famous study was based on a hoax Sex & Relationships John P. Elia,Ivy Chen,2005 Journal of Cross-cultural Psychology ,2004-07 Proceedings ,2007 Rethinking the Human Revolution Paul Mellars,2007 Arising from a conference Rethinking the Human Revolution reconsiders all of the central issues in modern human behavioural cognitive biological and demographic origins in the light of new information and new theoretical perspectives which have emerged over the past twenty years of intensive research in this field The 34 papers cover topics ranging from the DNA and skeletal evidence for modern human origins in Africa through the archaeological evidence for the emergence of distinctively modern patterns of human behaviour and cognition to the various lines of evidence for the geographical dispersal patterns of biologically and behaviourally modern populations from their African origins throughout Asia Australasia and Europe over the past 60 000 years Journal of Economic Literature ,2005 Principles of Psychology Jacob Robert Kantor,1926 According to the author only by avoiding meticulously all powers or functions whether considered as psychic or biological which do not represent actual observable phenomena or interpretations derived from such observations can psychology as a science be erected upon a firm foundation Designing Life? Maureen Junker-Kenny,1999 This text sets out to examine the implications of the power to design life which the application of genetics to reproductive biology has brought about
