Charred Lullabies Chapters In An Anthropography Of Violence:

Charred Lullabies E. Valentine Daniel, 1996-11-11 How does an ethnographer write about violence How can he make sense of violent acts for himself and for his readers without compromising its sheer excess and its meaning defying core How can he remain a scholarly observer when the country of his birth is engulfed by terror These are some of the questions that engage Valentine Daniel in this exploration of life and death in contemporary Sri Lanka In 1983 Daniel walked into the ashes and mortal residue of the violence that had occurred in his homeland His planned project the study of women s folk songs as ethnohistory was immediately displaced by the responsibility that he felt had been given to him by surviving family members and friends of victims to recount beyond Sri Lanka what he had seen and heard there Trained to do fieldwork by staying in one place and educated to look for coherence and meaning in human behavior what does an anthropologist do when he is forced by circumstances to keep moving searching for reasons he never finds How does he write an ethnography or an anthropography to use the author s term without transforming it into a pornography of violence In avoiding fattening the anthropography into prurience how does he avoid flattening it with theory The ways in which Daniel grapples with these questions and their answers instill this groundbreaking book with a rare sense of passion purpose and intellect In Defense of Dharma Tessa J. Bartholomeusz, 2002 This is the first book to examine war and violence in Sri Lanka through the lens of cross cultural studies on just war tradition and theory An important contribution to the understanding of the power of religion to create both peace and war Social Suffering Arthur Kleinman, Veena Das, Margaret M. Lock, 1997-12-30 Social Suffering takes in the human consequences of war famine depression disease and torture problems that result from what political economic and institutional power does to people Experts have joined together to investigate the cultural representations of Narrating War and Peace in Africa Solimar Otero, 2010 Narrating War and Peace in Africa interrogates conventional representations of Africa and African culture mainly in the twentieth and early twenty first centuries with an emphasis on portrayals of conflict and peace While Africa has experienced political and social turbulence throughout its history more recent conflicts seem to reinforce the myth of barbarism across the continent in Nigeria Rwanda Somalia Sierra Leone Uganda Kenya Mozambique Chad South Africa Zimbabwe and Sudan The essays in this volume address reductive and stereotypical assumptions of postcolonial violence as tribal in nature and offer instead various perspectives across disciplinary boundaries that foster a less fetishized more contextualized understanding of African war peace and memory Through their geographical historical and cultural scope and diversity the chapters in Narrating War and Peace in Africa aim to challenge negative stereotypes that abound in relation to Africa in general and to its wars and conflicts in particular encouraging a shift to more balanced and nuanced representations of the continent and its political and social climates Contributors Ann Albuyeh Zermarie Deacon Alicia C Decker Am na Mo nfar Kayode Omoniyi Ogunfolabi Sabrina Parent Susan Rasmussen Michael Sharp Cheryl Sterling Hetty ter Haar Melissa Tully Pamela Wadende Metasebia

States of Violence Edna G. Bay, Donald Lewis Donham, 2006 By focusing on the participation and consequences for ordinary people this collection offers a fresh perspective on the eruption of violence in sub Saharan Africa None of the contributions takes the easy way out either by claiming any special propensity of Africans to violence or by calling attention to titillating aspects of the violence itself Rather they offer thick descriptions of particular violent episodes to develop their contexts and the larger causes that made them happen The case studies drawn from field research in Guinea Bissau Nigeria Rwanda Sierra Leone South Africa and Zimbabwe search for the meaning of specific instances of collective violence to the individuals caught up in them Nelson Kasfir Dartmouth College This coherently assembled set of contributions illuminates crucial aspects of the disorder and insecurity afflicting much of contemporary Africa The potent social force of a marginalized youth generation is explored in its different manifestations in a variety of settings by an excellent roster of scholars Crawford Young Emeritus Professor of Political Science University of Wisconsin Madison Unmatched in its ethnographic depth and attention to critical dimensions of African conflicts This volume cuts across the continent and across several intertwining themes to provide highly contextual analyses within a well defined framework Catherine Besteman Colby College editor of Violence A Reader

Narrative, Pain, and Suffering Daniel B. Carr, John David Loeser, David B. Morris, 2005 When I experience pain who or what is the me that suffers When I relieve another's pain who or what is the other that I restore to well being Increasingly these questions seem answerable only through an understanding of narrative Studies of pain narrative focus not simply on engrossing tales but on complex and subtle processes rooted in the neurobiology of self representation emotion and social interaction These processes shape how individuals and cultures experience and report pain Studies of narrative in its broadest sense not only deepen our understanding of pain and suffering but also teach us about meaning motivation and discourse as represented in the biomedical human and social sciences This book embodies the path breaking multidisciplinary perspective that was created when leading contributors in neurobiology integrative physiology anthropology psychology sociology and clinical research joined with clinicians writers and journalists from developed and developing countries Together they have produced a unique volume that speaks to core issues integral to emerging pain research and humane health care in the 21st century

Performing Kinship Krista E. Van Vleet, 2008-02 In the highland region of Sullka located in the rural Bolivian Andes habitual activities such as sharing food work and stories create a sense of relatedness among people Through these day to day interactions as well as more unusual events individuals negotiate the affective bonds and hierarchies of their relationships In Performing Kinship Krista E Van Vleet reveals the ways in which relatedness is evoked performed and recast among the women of Sullk ata Portraying relationships of camaraderie and conflict Van Vleet argues that narrative illuminates power relationships which structure differences among women as well as between women and men She also contends that in the Andes gender cannot be understood without attention to kinship Stories such as that of the young woman who migrates to the city to do domestic work and later returns to the highlands voicing a deep ambivalence about the traditional authority of her in laws provide enlightening examples of the ways in which storytelling enables residents of Sullk ata to make sense of events and link themselves to one another in a variety of relationships A vibrant ethnography Performing Kinship offers a rare glimpse into an compelling world The Gender of Globalization Nandini Gunewardena, Ann E. Kingsolver, 2007 As globalization moves rapidly from buzzword to cliché evaluating the claims of neoliberal capitalism to empower and enrich remains urgently important The authors in this volume employ feminist ethnographic methods to examine what free trade and export processing zones economic liberalization and currency reform mean to women in Argentina Sri Lanka Mexico Ghana the United States India Jamaica and many other places Heralded as agents of prosperity and liberation neoliberal economic policies have all too often refigured and redoubled the burdens of gender race caste class and regional subordination that women bear Annual Review of Anthropology, 2007 Annual compilation of critical articles from all areas of the discipline of anthropology Birth of a Boundary Edward Ramon Paulino, 2001 Ethics and Anthropology Anne-Marie E. Cantwell, Eva Friedlander, Madeleine Lorch Tramm, 2000 Since the 1970s anthropologists have moved into diverse workplaces including private and public settings that raise new issues for anthropology as a discipline as well as for the discourse on science more generally In the context of increasing globalization the articulation of new ethical dilemmas around such issues as technology indigenous knowledge and rights government regulation and bioethics among others can and do inform and shape scientific public policy The authors in this volume work in traditional research centres and universities as well as in private and public sectors and across specialties from medical anthropology and social medicine to archaeology and cyberspace They explore the dimensions of an ethical anthropology in today s world and the unique contribution of anthropology to the sciences Contributions to Indian Sociology, 2001 Being a Bush Wife Chris Coulter, 2006
