Ding Clarinet Percussion Double Bass:

Ding Long Zhou,2005 for B flat clarinet percussion vibraphone marimba double bass The meaning of Ding is the perfect concentration of thought into the one object of meditation Zhou translates this Buddhist concept into concrete musical form by using an abstract improvisational style and a slow tempo throughout His thematic elements include a twelve tone row and a tonal melody which are treated with a variety of instrumental techniques including blowing striking and bowing the instruments in their full range of pitches The work combines elements of both Western and Eastern musical traditions

NACWPI Journal National Association of College Wind and Percussion Instructors,2006 Chinese Émigré Composers and Divergent Modernisms Mia Chung,2024-05-30 This Element examines the factors that drove the stylistic heterogeneity of Chen Yi and Zhou Long after the Cultural Revolution Known as New Wave composers they entered the Central Conservatory of Music once the Cultural Revolution ended and attained international recognition for their modernisms after their early careers in America Scholars have often treated their early music as contingent outcomes of that cultural and political moment This Element proposes instead that unique personal factors shaped their modernisms despite their shared experiences of the Cultural Revolution and educations at the Central Conservatory and Columbia University Through interviews on six stages of their development the Element examines and explains the reasons for their stylistic divergence

Dangerous Tunes Barbara Mittler,1997 Barbara Mittler's book is the first comprehensive monographic study of China's New Music written in a Western language It deals with two key points of contention the effects of politics on the development of Chinese New Music and the importance of China's indigenous musical traditions for the development of her New Music In many ways it is a handbook to New Chinese Music as it provides biographical and musicological sketches of the greater number of China's composers As a reference work it will thus be of interest to libraries as well as to musicologists and music impresarios The book is unique as a comparative study of New Chinese Music under three different political systems Its conclusions the discovery of and explanations for inherent similarities in those three New Musics will be of interest to sinologists in the field of politics and cultural studies Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress.
