Disabilities Education Act Ted Gordon,2013-08-19 Special education teachers and parents of children with special education needs are often unaware of the statutory rights under the Individual with Disabilities Education Act IDEA and how to enforce them On the flip side they sometimes do not realize how broad the law is or how and what they must do to meet the laws requirements The author starts with the premise that one of the hardest aspects of studying this law is find a friendly easy way into the statutes Further heavily digested court cases offer examples of what can go wrong if the proper procedures are not followed For example the first case present in the book is one where the parents forced the school district to pay for their child to attend a fancy private school as well as pay for meals and transportation to that school Another case in this book discusses what happens when a parent refuses to agree to the recommended IEP placement Then the next book chapter discusses when there is a change in circumstances that requires an IEP The final court case reviews a situation when the child sought to qualify under IDEA even though the school did not diagnose a disability It also briefly covers section 504 situations and how they tie into IDEA Special education teachers need to know the law to protect themselves as well as meet their legal requirements conversely parents need to understand the law to know how broad and all encompassing the rights are for children meeting the requirements but not getting all the attention they need International Child Law ,2014-06-20

Clough, Jonathan Herring, 2021-04-12 This book explores the series of issues that emerge at the intersection of disability care and family law Disability studies is an area of increasing academic interest In addition to a subject in its own right there has been growing concern to ensure that mainstream subjects diversify and include marginalised voices including those of disabled people Family law in modern times is often based on an able bodied autonomous norm but can fit less well with the complexities of living with disability In response this book addresses a range of important and highly topical issues whether care proceedings are used too often in cases where parents have disabilities how the law should respond to children who care for disabled parents and the care of older family members with disabilities It also considers the challenges posed by the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities particularly around the different institutional and state responsibilities captured in the Convention and around decision making for both disabled adults and children This interdisciplinary collection with contributors from law criminology sociology and social policy as well as from policy and activist backgrounds will appeal to academic family lawyers and disability scholars as well as students interested in issues around family law disability and care Free Appropriate Public Education H. Education Ruth Colker, 2013-05-13 Enacted in 1975 the Education for All Handicapped Children Act now called the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act IDEA provides all children with the right to a free and appropriate public education On the face of it the IDEA is a shining example of law's democratizing impulse But is that really the case In Disabled Education Ruth Colker digs deep beneath the IDEA's surface and reveals that the IDEA contains flaws that were evident at the time of its enactment that limit its effectiveness for poor and minority children Both an expert in disability law and the mother of a child with a hearing impairment Colker learned first hand of the Act's limitations when she embarked on a legal battle to persuade her son's school to accommodate his impairment Colker was able to devote the considerable resources of a middle class lawyer to her struggle and ultimately won but she knew that the IDEA would not have benefitted her son without her time consuming and costly legal intervention Her experience led her to investigate other cases which confirmed her suspicions that the IDEA best serves those with the resources to advocate strongly for their children The IDEA also works only as well as the rest of the system does struggling schools that serve primarily poor students of color rarely have the funds to provide appropriate special education and related services to their students with disabilities Through a close examination of the historical evolution of the IDEA the actual experiences of children who fought for their education in court and social science literature on the meaning of learning disability Colker reveals the IDEA's shortcomings but also suggests ways in which resources might be allocated more evenly along class lines
