Disaster Public Health and Older People Emily Ying Yang Chan, 2019-08-23

Disaster Public Health and Older People introduces professionals, students, and fieldworkers to the science and art of promoting health and well-being among older people in the context of humanitarian emergencies, with a particular focus on low and middle-income country settings. Older people face specific vulnerabilities in physical, mental, and social well-being during disasters. They are likely to experience socio-economic marginalisation, isolation, inaccessible information, and a lack of relevant post-emergency support services. Meanwhile, although older people can also significantly contribute to disaster preparedness, response, and recovery, their capacities are often underutilised. Drawing on a range of global case studies, this book provides readers with a theoretical underpinning while suggesting actions at the individual, community, and national levels to reduce the health risks to older people posed by the increasing frequency and intensity of disaster, in particular those resulting from natural hazards. Topics covered range from the health impact of disasters on older people and response to their post-disaster health needs to disaster preparedness disease prevention healthy ageing global policy developments and the contributions of older people in disaster contexts This book draws on lessons learnt from previous disasters and targets students and professionals working in disaster medicine disaster public health humanitarian studies gerontology and geriatrics Pamphlets American Red Cross,1928 Preparedness, Response, and Recovery Considerations for Children and Families Institute of Medicine,Board on Health Sciences Policy,Forum on Medical and Public Health Preparedness for Catastrophic Events,2014-03-21 Preparedness Response and Recovery Considerations for Children and Families is the summary of a workshop convened in June 2013 by the Institute of Medicine Forum on Medical and Public Health Preparedness for Catastrophic Events to discuss disaster preparedness response and resilience relative to the needs of children and families including children with special health care needs Traditional and non traditional medical and public health stakeholders from across federal state and local government health care coalitions community organizations school districts child care providers hospitals private health care providers insurers academia and other partners in municipal planning met to review existing tools and frameworks that can be modified to include children s needs identify child serving partners and organizations that can be leveraged in planning to improve outcomes for children highlight best practices in resilience and recovery strategies for children and raise awareness of the need to integrate children s considerations throughout local and state emergency plans Communities across the United States face the threat of emergencies and disasters almost every day natural and man made urban and rural large and small Although children represent nearly 25 percent of the U S population current state and local disaster preparedness plans often do not include specific considerations for children and families The preparedness and resilience of communities related to children will require a systems framework for disaster preparedness across traditional and non traditional medical and public health stakeholders including community organizations schools and other partners in municipal planning This report examines resilience strategies that lead to successful recovery in children after a disaster and discusses current approaches and interventions to improve recovery in children Publications American National Red Cross,1928 Disasters and Disaster Relief American Academy of Political and Social Science,1957 Journal of the American Medical Association ,1926 Includes proceedings of the association papers read at the annual sessions and lists of current medical literature Disasters and Mental Health Frederick L.
