Apocalyptic Sentimentalism Kevin Pelletier, 2015-01-15 In contrast to the prevailing scholarly consensus that understands sentimentality to be grounded on a logic of love and sympathy Apocalyptic Sentimentalism demonstrates that in order for sentimentality to work as an antislavery engine it needed to be linked to its seeming opposite fear especially the fear of God's wrath Most antislavery reformers recognized that calls for love and sympathy or the representation of suffering slaves would not lead an audience to feel right or to actively oppose slavery The threat of God's apocalyptic vengeance and the terror that this threat inspired functioned within the tradition of abolitionist sentimentality as a necessary goad for sympathy and love Fear then was at the center of nineteenth century sentimental strategies for inciting antislavery reform bolstering love when love faltered and operating as a powerful mechanism for establishing interracial sympathy Depictions of God's apocalyptic vengeance constituted the most efficient strategy for antislavery writers to generate a sense of terror in their audience Focusing on a range of important antislavery figures including David Walker Nat Turner Maria Stewart Harriet Beecher Stowe and John Brown Apocalyptic Sentimentalism illustrates how antislavery discourse worked to redefine violence and vengeance as the ultimate expression rather than denial of love and sympathy At the same time these warnings of apocalyptic retribution enabled antislavery writers to express albeit indirectly fantasies of brutal violence against slaveholders What began as a sentimental strategy quickly became an incendiary gesture with antislavery reformers envisioning the complete annihilation of slaveholders and defenders of slavery International Journal of Media and Cultural Politics, 2007
