Future-Proofing the State Jonathan Boston, John Wana, Vic Lipski, Justin Pritchard, 2014-05-30 This book focuses on the challenges facing governments and communities in preparing for and responding to major crises especially the hard to predict yet unavoidable natural disasters ranging from earthquakes and tsunamis to floods and bushfires as well as pandemics and global economic crises Future proofing the state and our societies involves decision makers developing capacities to learn from recent disaster experiences in order to be better placed to anticipate and prepare for foreseeable challenges To undertake such futureproofing means taking long term and often recurring problems seriously managing risks appropriately investing in preparedness prevention and mitigation reducing future vulnerability building resilience in communities and institutions and cultivating astute leadership In the past we have often heard calls for better future proofing in the aftermath of disasters but then neglected the imperatives of the message Future Proofing the State is organised around four key themes how can we better predict and manage the future how can we transform the short term thinking shaped by our political cycles into more effective long term planning how can we build learning into our preparations for future policies and management and how can we successfully build trust and community
