Crawford-Garrett,Damon R. Carbajal,2023 Drawing on frameworks of teacher research and critical literacy this volume documents the experiences of educators in New Mexico who participate in Teaching Out Loud an intergenerational professional development program that focuses on the creation and implementation of imaginative critical curriculum with historically marginalized students This text offers a set of conceptual tools and pedagogical practices for teacher educators and researchers seeking to advance teacher learning and leadership through the use of critical study groups rather than the more scripted professional development approaches that dominate mainstream educational settings Specifically this book uses the voices of a diverse set of teachers to demonstrate the role of teacher inquiry in shifting curriculum and advancing equity even when faced with formidable circumstances like a global pandemic The authors examine how participation in Teaching Out Loud helped teachers foster social emotional learning foreground issues of race and identity build and sustain community promote self care and center play within and against challenging local and global contexts Book Features Highlights the voices of teachers representing a range of diverse perspectives and experience levels Explains classroom practices and approaches in detail Examines the challenges posed by the COVID 19 pandemic Explicitly addresses critical issues like race and social justice Focuses on the American Southwest Contributors Damon R Carbajal Katherine Crawford Garrett Kristen Heighberger Ortiz Linnea Holden Amanda Y Short Kahlil Simpson The Practice of International Development Jerrold Keilson,Michael Gubser,2017-09-22 Development analysts tend to give short shrift to the seemingly minor bureaucratic hitches faced by practitioners those who design manage implement and evaluate aid projects Often critical of foreign aid either for its apparent ineffectiveness at alleviating poverty or its purported neocolonial implications the academic literature rarely acknowledges the experiences and pressures faced by practitioners themselves as they implement aid funded development projects the meetings paperwork negotiations site visits financial transactions logistical arrangements interviews program activities and beneficiary interactions that keep projects running And yet the impact of aid projects and indeed the impact of development itself often grows out of the daily activities and personal interactions of development practitioners This unique book considers challenges from the perspective of development practitioners who confront technical managerial political theoretical and moral quandaries on a daily basis With chapters written by expert practitioners on different aspects of design and management of international development activities this book examines real issues and navigates the often contradictory demands of local development needs including international donor imperatives limited financial resources time information and assurance of results the competing pulls of administrative efficiency and the desire to alleviate suffering It also gives readers access to the crucial but little heard voices of those who spend their professional lives designing and managing foreign aid projects offering insight into what did or did not work on projects they have managed implemented or evaluated These insights do not seek to identify universally right or wrong ways of doing development instead they highlight pros and cons associated with various approaches and decisions This book provides valuable insights for students and others interested in a development career encourages practitioners to engage in reflection and persuades researchers to further consider the influence of practice on project success or failure The American School Board Journal William George Bruce, William Conrad Bruce, 1913 The Smith Alumnae Quarterly ,1940
