Sweden. Styrelsen för internationell utveckling, 1988 Vocationalization of secondary education is taken to mean curriculum change in a practical or vocational direction Vocationalization is a trend which transcends the divide between rich and poor countries and between different political systems This volume illustrates the international importance of the theme Part I deals with the views and expectations relating to the process of vocationalization Part II is concerned with the process of policy formulation and the conditions impinging on that process Part III addresses select issues in policy implementation and describes more broadly how vocationalization policies have been implemented throughout the education system of various countries Finally Part IV discusses the results of a number of empirical evaluation studies

The Urbanization of People Eli Friedman, 2022-06-07 Amid a vast influx of rural migrants into urban areas China has allowed cities wide latitude in providing education and other social services While millions of people have been welcomed into the megacities as a source of cheap labor local governments have used various tools to limit their access to full citizenship The Urbanization of People reveals how cities in China have granted public goods to the privileged while condemning poor and working class migrants to insecurity constant mobility and degraded educational opportunities Using the school as a lens on urban life Eli Friedman investigates how the state manages flows of people into the city He demonstrates that urban governments are providing quality public education to those who need it least school admissions for nonlocals heavily favor families with high levels of economic and cultural capital Those deemed not useful are left to enroll their children in precarious resource starved private schools that sometimes are subjected to forced demolition Over time these populations are shunted away to smaller locales with inferior public services Based on extensive ethnographic research and hundreds of in depth interviews this interdisciplinary book details the policy framework that produces unequal outcomes as well as providing a fine grained account of the life experiences of people drawn into the cities as workers but excluded as full citizens
