But there's a great deal of hype and misunderstanding about the impact and promise of this technology. With this book, Chris Fregly, Antje Barth, and Shelbee Eigenbrode from AWS help CTOs, ML practitioners, application developers, business analysts, data engineers, and data scientists find practical ways to use this exciting new technology. You'll learn the generative AI project life cycle, including use case definition, model selection, model fine-tuning, retrieval-augmented generation, reinforcement learning from human feedback, and model quantization, optimization, and deployment. And you'll explore different types of models, including large language models (LLMs) and multimodal models such as Stable Diffusion for generating images and Flamingo IDEFICS for answering questions about images. Apply generative AI to your business use cases. Determine which generative AI models are best suited to your task. Perform prompt engineering and in-context learning. Fine-tune generative AI models on your datasets with low-rank adaptation (LoRA). Align generative AI models to human values with reinforcement learning from human feedback (RLHF). Augment your model with retrieval-augmented generation (RAG). Explore libraries such as LangChain and ReAct to develop agents and actions. Build generative AI applications with Amazon Bedrock.

Real-time Image Upscaling with Commonly Available Resources Nathaniel Tovar (Graduate student), 2021 Abstract With the rise of video streaming platforms the need to maximize image quality at the user end while minimizing the amount of data sent has never been higher Compression algorithms are already nearing the limit of their ability to improve thus the only way to significantly decrease the amount of data sent would be to decrease the image resolution on the transmitter side and upscale the image on the user side The difficulty of this lies in the fact that the users have vastly different resources available to perform said upscaling and normal upscaling does not yield sufficiently high quality images Deep learning has enabled the advent of image super resolution but such solutions take too long to be useful in real time applications Therefore I am proposing a deep learning network that can be run in real time on a single core of a 2 GHz CPU while providing better quality than normal interpolation
