Evidence-based Parenting Education James Ponzetti, Jr., 2015-08-14 This is the first book to provide a multidisciplinary critical and global overview of evidence-based parenting education (PEd) programs. Readers are introduced to the best practices for designing, implementing, and evaluating effective PEd programs in order to teach clients how to be effective parents. Noted contributors from various disciplines examine evidence-based programs from the U.S., Canada, Europe, Asia, Australia, as well as web-based alternatives. The best practices used in a number of venues are explored often by the developers themselves. Examples and discussion questions encourage application of the material. Critical guidance for those who wish to design, implement, and evaluate PEd programs in various settings is provided. All chapters feature learning goals, an introduction, conclusion, key points, discussion questions, and additional resources. In addition to these elements, chapters in Part III follow a consistent structure so readers can easily compare programs: theoretical foundations and history, needs assessment and target audience, program goals/objectives, curriculum issues, cultural implications, evidence-based research and evaluation, and professional preparation and training issues. The editor has taught parenting and family life education courses for years. This book reviews the key information that his students needed to become competent professionals. Highlights of the book's coverage include: Comprehensive summary of evidence-based PEd training programs in one volume. Prepares readers for professional practice as a Certified Family Life Educator (CFLE) by highlighting the fundamentals of developing and evaluating PEd programs. Exposes readers to models of parenting education from around the world. The book opens with a historical overview of PEd development. It is followed by 20 chapters divided in four parts. The initial six chapters focus on fundamentals of parenting education: program design, implementation, evaluation, the role of mediators and moderators, as well as the U.S. Cooperative Extension Parent Framework. The three chapters in Part II review the latest status of parenting education in Europe, Asia, and web-based alternatives. Part III presents ten stellar evidence-based parenting programs offered around the world. In addition to the learning goals introduction conclusion key points discussion questions and additional resources that are found in all chapters those in Part III also consider theoretical foundations and history needs assessment and target audience program goals objectives curriculum issues cultural Implications evidence based research and evaluation and professional preparation and training issues Part IV reviews future directions Ideal for advanced undergraduate or graduate courses in parent education parent child relations parenting early childhood or family life education family therapy and home school and community services taught in human development and family studies psychology social work sociology education nursing and more the book also serves as a resource for practitioners counselors clergy members and policy makers interested in evidence based PEd programs or those seeking to become CFLEs or Parent Educators Managing Library Instruction Programs in Academic Libraries Julia K. Nims, Eric Owens, 2003 Issues covered in breakout sessions range from staff scheduling and workload to project management and from collaborating with faculty to devising staff development programs The Classical Outlook, 2000 Interactive Learning David G. Brown, 2000 Interactive Learning is a rich collection of best practices in the use of instructional technology from 36 of America's most wired campuses In 93 brief informal and practical vignettes professors show how they transformed courses with technology discuss how the technology affected teaching and learning and distill important lessons learned The accounts are written in lay language and are brimming with information and examples that will help anyone from the novice to the computer savvy who is interested in classroom applications of technology Links to Learning National Institute on Out-of-School Time (U.S.), 2005 Get all the tools your after school program needs for a well balanced program This resource provides an overview of learning and child development offers tips and tools for selecting planning developing and evaluating after school activities and demonstrates how to link these activities to sample learning and quality standards The book also introduces the reader to curriculum resources focusing on seven key learning areas believed to be central to comprehensive high quality after school programs The Green Agenda in American Politics Robert J. Duffy, 2003 Organizations such as the Sierra Club and Friends of the Earth are familiar to anyone with an interest in environmental protection As activist groups they played by the same rules for years But in 1994 the rules changed With the Republican takeover of Congress environmental groups faced sweeping changes in federal policies that threatened the enforcement of environmental laws As these organizations intensified their efforts to meet these challenges they also altered their electoral strategies and political spending patterns This book traces those actions and shows what they mean for the future of environmentalism in the political arena While environmental advocacy groups have become bigger and better funded in recent years so have the corporate interests that compete with them for the attention of public and politicians The Green Agenda in American Politics offers a new look at environmental advocacy that focuses on contemporary lobbying electioneering and agenda setting in this new context Drawing on interviews with activists from a wide range of organizations Robert Duffy describes what environmental groups actually do when lobbying officials or the public He examines activity at both national and state levels to emphasize their growing use of websites email and action alert networks to conduct more sophisticated grassroots campaigns and he shows how they are devoting more funds to unregulated forms of spending such as independent expenditure issue advocacy advertising and public education campaigns Duffy also tracks emerging trends in interest group politics and provides an overview of activism through the early 1990s He then documents the emergence of more aggressive action after 1994 such as providing campaign services to candidates and mounting voter registration drives He also shows how state and local groups have begun to play more important roles in the wake of the rollback of federal environmental regulations Brimming with new insights into interest group lobbies in general and contemporary environmental groups in particular Duffy s book opens a new window on the influence of Big Money in the supposedly democratic electoral process
